STABBER KILLS SALEM BABY

Mother Slashed, Her Baby Slain

Mrs. Eleanor A. Dubiel, 33-year-old Salem Willows wife, shown here with her husband, Alexander, was slashed in the thigh and her 3-months-old son, Edward, was stabbed to death today in their home in Restaurant rd. The mother, who was rushed to Salem Hospital with the child, blamed a stranger, who forced his way into her home, for the stabbings. The attack took place shortly after Mrs. Dubiel's husband left the house for work.

Congressmen Ask Rationing of Food

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP)—Voluntary food rationing—with a control law ready for use if such a system fails—was proposed by a Congressional body today as one means of combatting the high cost of living. The Senate-House group, headed by Sen. Flanders (R.) of Vermont, also called for a reduction in taxes on low-income individuals and voluntary restraints on profits and wage increases, as well as a return to installment buying curbs.

In a report to the joint economic committee headed by Sen. Taft (R.) of Ohio, the Flanders subgroup also said further investigation was needed of the 40-hour work week, adding:

"We often refer to the miracles of production in the war, but they were not accomplished on a 40-hour week. We may be facing the necessity of a temporary increase in the work week if we are to furnish the products required for European relief and reconstruction without lowering our domestic consumption."

Besides Flanders, Sens. Baldwin (R.) of Connecticut, and Meyers (D.) of Pennsylvania, and Reps. Rich (R.) of Pennsylvania, Kilburn (R.) of New York, and Hart (D.) of New Jersey, signed the report.

Flanders told reporters in releasing the findings it is his personal opinion that there will have to be resumption of meat rationing. He contended this would force meat prices down.

Criticizing the present food saving program directed by Charles Luckman as "illogical and inadequate," the Flanders report said higher-income individuals or families should be urged to cut down their over-all consumtpion of meat, butter, eggs and poultry.

"The low income consumer needs no voluntary rationing," the report said. "He is already being involuntarily rationed (by prices). The higher income consumer can follow the rules given by the Luckman committee literally and faithfully without making any reduction in his total intake of meat and eggs."

The sub-committee said voluntary rationing should be tried first but added "since it may not work sufficiently quickly or effectively, the Congress might well give consideration to setting up the mechanism for limited rationing of important foodstuffs only."

Rocket Lab Blast Kills Dr. Schmidt

AYLESBURY, Eng., Nov. 14 (AP)—An explosion rocked Britain's rocket research station today and killed Dr. Johannes Schmidt, head of a team of German experts brought to England after the war.

The Ministry of Supply said one other person was killed, three seriously injured and nine others slightly hurt.

The explosion apparently occurred during experiments with rocket assistance for airplane take-offs. The station also has done research on rocket missiles, but these are tested elsewhere. The station is in the hills near here.

Schmidt, 44, was credited with creating an early rocket plane, the Messerschmitt ME-163. He and 10 German associates also had worked on the German V-1 and V-2 projects, which are being followed up in the United States by tests in New Mexico.

An eyewitness said the blast occurred after two rockets were set up for tests. When the first was fired the second exploded. Workers nearby were hit.

NEW CHINA DOLLAR DIVE

SHANGHAI, Nov. 14 (AP)—The value of China's dollar dropped sharply today, apparently because proposal of the U. S. aid fell far short of what had been expected. Latest black market rate was 99,000 Chinese dollars to $1 U. S. Two days ago it was 86,000-to-$1.

Rep. Lodge Says Red Coup Near in Italy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP)—Rep. John D. Lodge, (R) of Connecticut, predicted today Communists would attempt a coup in Italy next March to be synchronized with a general strike in France.

He said success of such a move in Italy would lead to the loss of Greece, Turkey and the Middle East to the Communists.

Lodge told the House Foreign Affairs Committee the Communists are so powerful in Italy they could dispose of Italian police "in about three days."

The House committee and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee are holding hearings separately on the Administration's request for $597,000,000 in emergency aid to help France, Italy and Australia through the winter.

Reporting on his first-hand study of the Italian situation, Lodge testified to the House group:

"I am convinced a Communist coup in Italy will come in March, after all American troops have left and just before the April (Italian) elections. The Russians feel that time is running against them.

"The great center of danger is in northern Italy, heart of Italian industry. The entire Po river valley is organized by Communists.

"If Italy falls, then Greece is outflanked and her positions become untenable. If Greece falls, Turkey's strategic position is gravely endangered. There are no Communists in Turkey, but although the Turks will fight to the last they cannot win. With Turkey lost, the Middle East goes, too.

"Then we will find the iron curtain extended to the Atlantic."

Lodge said Russia's armies today could overrun Europe, including Spain and Portugal, within two weeks. He told reporters later that this estimate was based on his talks with chiefs of staff and the highest military and naval experts.

"It does not appear likely there will be another war for several years," he told the House committee, "but the question whether we will win it will be decided in the next two or three years. And the next few months will be highly critical."

Lodge told newsmen he is not advocating return of American armies to Europe to combat Soviet expansion.

"It is not my place as a legislator to say what steps should be taken. But I will say that it requires force," he said.

Meyers' Pals Given Million in Contracts

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers disclosed he has asked for a court-martial trial after Senate investigators developed testimony today that $1,053,000 of wartime contracts went to a firm in which he once acknowledged a financial interest and later said was owned by friends.

The Air Force said Gen. Meyers made request for a court-martial trial verbally about the middle of October and was notified verbally that the request could not be granted.

These developments came in quick succession at the Senate was investigating committee's inquiry into financial affairs of Meyers, a wartime Air Force purchasing officer:

Lawrence D. Bell, president of Bell Aircraft Corp., testified his firm awarded $1,053,000 of subcontracts to the Aviation Electric Co., Dayton, Ohio. He said Meyers told him it was owned by his (Meyers') friends.

TOLD OF OWNING STOCK

Oliver P. Echols, retired major general and Gen. Meyers' immediate superior for many years, testified that Meyers told him "about 1940" that he owned stock in the electrical company but either had or would dispose of it then.

At that point, the Senate group recessed and Meyers announced to reporters that he has asked a court-martial trial.

He said he made the request to W. Stuart Symington, secretary of the new separate Air Forces and Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, Air Force head, two or three months ago.

Meyers added:

"I specifically told Symington and Gen. Spaatz I did not want a whitewash and emphasized in no uncertain language . . . that I did not want to be exonerated of anything if guilty of any crime."

In response to a reporter's question, Meyers said he did not know whether, as a retired officer, he was still subject to court-martial but, "I certainly would have no objection to it."

NEVER INVESTIGATED

Meyers was wartime deputy chief of procurement (purchasing) for the Air Forces.

The committee is inquiring into Meyers' acknowledged $4,000,000 wartime speculation on government bonds and his other wartime financial affairs.

The committee again questioned

NEW MEYERS HOME 30-ROOM MANSION

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (INS)—The New York Daily Mirror said today in a copyrighted story that Maj. Gen. Bennett Meyers changed residences 14 months ago from a modest cottage to a 30-room mansion on a four-acre estate.

The Mirror said:

"Meyers, accused of making from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 in wartime deals, now lives on an estate at Halesite, Suffolk County.

"Meyers' new home, which boasts seven bathrooms, at least four servants, a four-car garage and other items usually confined to persons living in the upper-bracket incomes, is on a peninsula."

The story described the "huge residence" as "in sharp contrast to the tiny bungalow in Bayville, which was given as the general's Long Island home."

650 U. S. Planes Back in Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The United States Air Force is bringing 650 combat airplanes—250 B-29 bombers and 400 fighters—out of storage to bring its strength up to 55 "fully operational groups" by Dec 31.

An announcement today said approximately 130 B-29S would be assigned to already-active air force units in order that groups now only partially operational may be brought up to full strength.

Stabber Kills Salem Baby, Cuts Mother

A 3-months-old boy was stabbed to death and his mother, Mrs. Eleanor A. Dubiel, 33, slashed in the thigh today in their home in Restaurant row, Salem Willows. The mother told police the stabbings had been done by an apparently maddened stranger, who forced his way into their home shortly after her husband, Alexander, had left the house for work. Police were summoned to the house by first floor occupants, who reported they heard screams in the Dubiel home on the second floor.

The mother and the boy, Edward, were rushed to Salem Hospital but the infant was dead of four stab wounds. Mrs. Dubiel was held for a slash wound in her thigh. Doctors said her condition was not serious.

She told police she was working in the kitchen of her home a few minutes after her husband left for work. She said there was a knock on the door and she opened it, expecting it was the laundry man.

STABBED BABY

Instead, she said, a dark-complexioned stranger burst into the kitchen, seized her and attempted to attack her. She said she struggled and in the scuffle he seized a knife from the kitchen table, slashing her thigh.

She slipped to the floor, she said, and the man darted to the baby's crib, stabbing the infant savagely as she screamed for help.

She said the intruder flung the knife out the kitchen window and then fled.

Police recovered the knife and it was taken to the State Police laboratory in Boston to be examined for fingerprints.

Her husband was notified at the store where he was employed and hurried to the hospital.

He told police that his wife had frequently expressed fear of being alone with the baby because of the isolated section in which they lived.

POLICE SUMMONED

The house is near the shore in the well known summer resort, a bustling community in the summer but unoccupied except by a few year-around residents at the present time. The first floor is occupied by the family of Emil Cousins. The two families are the only ones now living in the immediate area.

Mrs. Cousins telephoned police after she heard screams coming from the second floor.

Then she went upstairs and found Mrs. Dubiel lying at the top of the stairway. She told Mrs. Cousins she was fearful that her baby was killed and the other woman went to the crib and found the child bleeding from stab wounds.

Dubiel, the son of Mrs. Anna Dubiel, Carlton st., Salem, had been employed in a Salem market after his return from Army service.

The couple were married two years ago in England, where he was serving in the Army while his wife was a WAC clerk on the staff of Gen. Eisenhower.

She is a native of Brooklyn.

State Detectives from the office of Dist. Atty. Hugh A. Cregg were sent to aid Salem police in the investigation after City Marshal John Harkins had reported the stabbings.

Find Quincy Granite Has Atom-Like Rays

A new and mysterious radiation, such as that thrown off when an atomic bomb is exploded, has been discovered emitting from Quincy granite and may be springing from all rocks of the earth which similarly contain uranium, thorium and potassium, Dr. Victor F. Hess, Fordham University scientist and Nobel Prize winner, revealed in New York today.

Hess, an Austrian-born physicist and discoverer of the cosmic rays a little more than 10 years ago, said he had begun experimenting with the granite in 1945, when he obtained a 300-pound block from a Quincy quarry and had it shipped to New York.

Two months ago the scientist and his aides shifted their experimentation to a subway station, 160 feet below the earth's surface, moving the block of granite there to screen it from the cosmic rays which bombard the globe from all directions.

While thousands of subway riders passed within feet of the makeshift "laboratory," Hess and his colleagues pressed toward their goal.

The scientists explained today that by use of a technical formula they determined the amount of radiation which should have been emitted by the granite in accordance with scientific knowledge to date.

"But we found a surplus nearly twice as much as the amount estimated," he said.

"It must be concluded," he added, "that a hitherto unknown and penetrating radiation is given off by the granite."

This, he stated, is gamma radiation—most penetrating of all, and part of the radiation following explosion of an atomic bomb.

In company with his research on Quincy granite, Dr. Hess undertook parallel experiments with dunite, a mineral containing no uranium, thorium or potassium, but he said those tests disclosed an almost complete lack of radiation.

He stressed that the granite continued to give off an almost 100 per cent surplus of the mysterious rays even when the ionization chamber he used in the subway was further protected with a lead cylinder from intrusion by outside rays.

It is now "probable," Hess said, that the theory of heat production in the earth will have to be altered.

The Fordham scientist, a former professor at the University of Vienna, is considered one of the world's foremost authorities on radioactivity and radioactive substances. He has been at Fordham since 1938, two years after he won the Nobel Prize for his discovery of cosmic rays.

Board Turns Down Noxon Plea by 2 to 1

The State Parole Board by a two to one vote today recommended rejection of the pardon plea of John F. Noxon, Jr., 51-year-old socially prominent Pittsfield corporation lawyer, now serving a life term for the electrocution murder of his mentally deficient infant son.

The parole board, acting as the advisory board on pardons, filed its report with the Massachusetts Corrections Commissioner, Chairman Matthew W. Bullock and Frederick J. Bradlee, Jr., of Boston, were registered in opposition, while Harold R. Lundgren of Worcester, favored a pardon.

Today's action by the pardons board confirmed a story in the Boston American earlier this week in which it was predicted that Noxon's pardon plea would be rejected by the board.

MAJORITY OPINION

In their majority recommendation opposing a pardon, Bullock and Bradlee wrote:

"In view of the fact that the subject's motion for a new trial was denied by the Supreme Judicial Court after careful consideration of the assignment of errors, the summary of the record and transcript of the evidence; in view of the fact that the parole board is precluded by statute from considering the question 'whether any crime at all had been committed,' and in view of the fact that the statute provides for a careful and thorough consideration of the merits of subject's case by the parole board on the question of extending clemency when he shall have served 15 years, we are of the opinion that the exercise of executive clemency at this time is not warranted.

"Therefore, we recommend that the petition for a full and complete pardon be denied."

LUNDGREN FOR PARDON

The dissenting recommendation of Lundgren, third member of the board, was contained in a single paragraph which read:

"After careful consideration of this case, I am of the opinion that John F. Noxon, Jr., is innocent and is therefore entitled to a full and complete pardon."

Former Gov. Ely, Noxon's counsel, informed at his Westfield home of the board's action, said:

"I am disappointed with the parole board's decision, but I will have nothing to say until I have read the report in detail."

The ultimate decision of Noxon's pardon plea must be made by Gov. Bradford.

The attorney-general said today he had no idea when he would reach a decision on his recommendation, adding, "it may be a week or a month." Barnes said he had read 24 volumes containing transcripts of legal proceedings in the Noxon case and would review the reports of the pardons board and of Dist. Atty. Alberti.

Lake Finds Hodgepodge Of Ideas in Reich Schools

By AUSTEN LAKE
Boston American Staff Correspondent

BERLIN (with the U. S. Occupation) —This is an island of thought in the German Occupation where the waves of unreality wash on the shores of illusion and where lives a fabulous monstrosity called "Quadripartite Control." This means that the four allied nations—America, England, France and Russia, share jointly in the administration and have equal voice in governing Berlin which, though divided into four sectors like a geographical pie, is theoretically one town and one people.

Representatives of the four powers meet regularly in what is called the "Commandatura." There is the top "Commandatura," composed of four allied generals who make major policy. And a "deputy Commandatura" of lesser officials who do the actual work. And 19 subcommittee "Commandaturas" which control Berlin's education, fuel, food, finance, etc. It sounds complicated and it's just as complicated as it sounds.

Let's see how it works with the German education program.

I went with Dr. Elizabeth Winkelmann, an English-speaking German woman, who is assistant-director of education in the U. S. sector, to several German elementary schools and listened to class room recitations. At the Paulsenschule for boys a class in geography was being taught by a male instructor who wore a heavy overcoat against the dank chill of the room.

The pupils had no books, so I whispered to Dr. Winkelmann, "Why do the children have no books?" The doctor said, "Because Nazi geographies were full of geo-political mistruths and were destroyed. The Commandatura cannot agree on what sort of geography meets the new German ideal, so the authors cannot write the manuscripts. The Russians want one thing and the Americans, French and British, another. So study is confined to such topics as where we get sugar, wool, the names of leading mountain ranges, et cetera. But this is very difficult, too, because we are not permitted to use any maps lest they reveal boundaries of political influence."

BIOLOGY PROPAGANDA

We went across the gloomy hallway to a biology class where the students rose in military unison. The instructor was lecturing on protozoans while the class jotted down notes. There were no books and I asked:

"Did the Nazis also use biology for propaganda?"

The Doctor smiled and said, "Yes! Such matters as Nordic supremacy and Germanic hereditary right to rule lesser nations. So the books were burned and the Commandatura cannot agree on what sort of lessons meet the children's needs. The Russians want one thing and . . ."

"But surely," I said, "there are reference libraries." And she said, "No! Half were destroyed by bombs and the other half purged by the Commandatura as unsuited to new thought. The Russians want . . ."

"Would you like to hear an advanced English class?" asked the Doctor, and I said, "Yes! Certainly they must have plenty of books there." She smiled sadly and said, "Very few! Indeed that is the most difficult of all courses for books, because the Russians don't want anything that might suggest capitalistic propaganda and the Americans don't want any Soviet propaganda. So even the classics are sometimes purged."

The Americans have just protested six books offered as suitable by the Russians, two of them standard U. S. works, including Jack London's "Otto the Heathen" and Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer." It is not that the Americans object to the authors or the books, but to the Russians' prefaces and footnotes. The introduction to Tom Sawyer says, in German:

"This illustrates the utter mendacity of the capitalistic class and the hypocrisy and bigotry of the United States at the turn of the century" (Die ganze Verlogenheit der capitalistischen Klasse," etc.)

So, after listening a while to the boys discussing "The Importance of Being Earnest," I suggested that we visit a history class. The doctor looked shocked.

"The Commandatura does not allow history to be taught," she said, adding that it was regarded as a most dangerous subject for German youth so soon after the war. "The Germans closed the Berlin schools from '43 to '45 because of the war risk, so we have had no history in the past five years.

"But," she said brightly, "we do have a current events course. That, too, however, offers a serious problem because the Russians control almost all of the paper mills in Germany and the other sectors have difficulty in getting enough material to print the lessons. And, of course, the inter-allied agreement allows free circulation of periodicals between the four sectors. So it is disheartening to find the

15½c Pay Hike For 200,000 R.R. Workers

CHICAGO, Nov. 14 (INS)—The nation's railroads and two union Brotherhoods reached an agreement today calling for a 15½-cents-an-hour wage increase for 200,000 operating employes.

The agreement was the first reached between the railroads and operating Brotherhoods through collective bargaining and without government intervention.

The unions making the agreement are the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors.

The increase amounts to $1.24 a day, it was said.

The Western Association of Railroads said partial settlement also was reached on working rules.

It said the increase and working rules thus far agreed on would cost the roads $100,000,000 a year.

Move for Lower Garbage Bids Fails

Mayor Hynes' recent attempt to get lower bids for collection of ashes and garbage in 15 districts of the city, where he considered bids at hand too high, failed today with the opening of new bids he had asked.

In addition, where 50 contractors had entered bids the first time, only 39 took part in the second bidding. In East Boston and Dorchester districts, only one contractor bid in each case.

The sums asked by the bidders were in all cases not low enough to get the results Hynes hoped for when he ordered the contracts readvertised.

Also, one contractor sent a check of $2064 as evidence of financial responsibility but forgot to sign his bid, while another sent a $4000 check but neglected to state for how much he would do the job.

32½c Lb. Quoted City on Turkey

The city went into the market today for 100,000 pounds of poultry, and found that the lowest price for such a quantity was 32.47 cents per pound, William I. Rose, superintendent of supplies, announced.

He said that if the $32,470 needed for the purchase could be found he would have a 16 weeks supply for City Hospital, 18 weeks supply for Mattapan Sanitorium, and an 18 weeks supply for Long Island Hospital. The poultry, mostly fowl weighing about four pounds each, would be kept in storage.

This supply would not include the Thanksgiving and Christmas turkeys for city institutions which are raised at Deer Island.

Unveil 500-Pound Cake for Elizabeth

By INEZ ROBB

LONDON, Nov. 14 (INS)—Princess Elizabeth's official wedding cake was unveiled today.

Artistes in cake decoration still were working on the four-tiered 9-foot high masterpiece as newsmen gathered. It will not be completed for another 36 hours although work started nine weeks ago.

The cake, which weighs 500 pounds, is based on a tremendous silver salver six inches deep.

Interlaced in delicate icing are the initials "E" and "P," for Elizabeth and Philip. The tiers are separated by slender columns of sterling silver about ten inches high.

In the lower tiers are the traditional lucky charms. "A ring for the next bride, a button for a bachelor, a thimble for a spinster, a lucky horseshoe, a thrupenny piece for wealth and a flat-iron."

A bottom tier panel boasts the bride, with sugar models of Buckarmorial bearings of H .R. H., the ingham Palace, Windsor Castle and Balmoral Castle.

The armorial bearings of Lt. Mountbatten are on the second tier, together with icing representations of his favorite sports—cricket, running and small boating.

The third tier shows the crest of the Royal Navy, the crest of the Grenadier Regiment Foot Guards and the badge of the Auxiliary Territorial Service in which the princess served during the war.

Even cutting the tremendous cake has been made easy for the bride. Satin ribbons have been attached to one beautiful wedge of the cake at the bottom tier.

On each side of this wedge are invisible slots down which the bride can easily force the sword with which she cuts the cake.

Then, presto, one neat pull on the ribbons and the first slice comes out neat as a pin.

Battle of Newark Goes to U. S. Court

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 14 (AP)—The city of Newark went into Federal Court, today, to ask for an injunction restraining Lipsett, Inc., owners of the old warship New Mexico, from bringing the once proud queen of the Fifth Fleet into Port of Newark for scrapping.

The last-minute legal maneuver was taken as the much heralded "Battle of Newark" between the battleship and this city's "Navy" of two fireboats was postponed until tomorrow because the New Mexico arrived in New York harbor too late to catch the tide.

Jury Gets Lovers Lane Killing Case, Pair Waiting Fate

The life or death fate of two Lowell youths, Michael F. Coggins, Jr., and Ralph P. Dupont, both 20, charged with the lovers' lane slaying of a young Army veteran in a parked car last March 1, was placed in the hands of 12 Middlesex Superior Court jurors at 12:27 p. m. today.

The names of Francis T. Hayes of Arlington and Jerry A. DeViller, of Melrose, were drawn as alternates and they were excused from the 14-man panel after the detailed 1 hr., and 50 min., charge delivered by Judge Abraham E. Pinanski. Coggins and Dupont listened intently as the judge instructed the jury on the law and instructed that on the evidence they could return verdicts of first or second degree murder, or acquittal.

They are accused of shooting Mario Grimolizzi, 26, as he resisted a holdup while sitting with his sweetheart, Miss Maureen Gilday, 17. She has identified the pair as the gunmen who approached the auto at 11 p. m. and fired two shots when Grimolizzi tried to give the alarm.

Her testimony for the prosecution was followed by the story of a young Lowell woman, Mrs. Theresa Rutina, once the fiancee of Coggins, that her erstwhile suitor confessed the murder to her from his cell at East Cambridge jail last April.

She declared under cross-examination her husband involved her in the case and she had to come here to testify. She denied her feelings for Coggins had changed because he began dating another Lowell girl, Doris Faulkner, and she said she was not angry at Doris for taking Coggins away from her.

Coggins listened to her testimony, then took the stand to deny the alleged confessions. He said he told her only what the police had charged him with Coggins claimed he was engaged to marry the girl, but he broke it off when he found her in an intimate situation with another youth. He added Mrs. Rutina assured him she loved him and not her husband.

Schoolgirl Slain, Quiz Boy Fiance

MASON CITY, IA., Nov. 14 (AP)—Arlene Mott, 16-year-old high school student, was found dead beside her sweetheart's car in an alley behind her home last night, and Cororer R. E. Smiley said she had been strangled.

Her finance, Charles Ver Helst, 18-year-old farm youth and high school senior, was questioned by police.

The girl, who only a week ago had bought a set of dishes for her hope chest, was lying beside Ver Helst's car.

The girl's brother called police after Ver Helst came into the Mott home and declared:

"You had better go out in the alley and see Arlene."

Ver Helst, who appeared to be in a dazed condition when he arrived at the Mott home, claimed an unidentified assailant had struck him on the head.

Coroner Smiley told police there was no indication on Ver Helst's head that he could have been hit hard enough even to be dazed.

The coroner said there were marks on the girl's neck which could have been caused by someone's fingers.

Friends of the girl said she was wearing Ver Helst's ring and that she said recently they would not be married for some time because both were still in school. Arlene was a junior at Mason City High School.

At school, she was described as a good student and "a good example of what a young lady should be."

WOMAN WOUNDED AS HUSBAND IS SLAIN—Slightly wounded by stray shot, Mrs. Florence Kosar, of Chicago, weeps out story to police of how her husband, Michael Kosar, was slain in their home by a shotgun blast fired through a window. Kosar was a defendant in a $2,000,000 robbery trial in 1944. He testified against two fellow robbers. The slaying marked the second attempt against his life. International News Soundphoto

Yacht Satira Scene After Shooting Told

HAVANA, Nov. 14 (AP)—Jose Mana Arango Granda of the Cuban Navy testified today Patricia (Satira) Schmidt called to his craft for help last April after she had shot her lover, John Lester Mee of Chicago.

Arango Granda said he boarded the yacht Satira, which Mee named after the Toledo, O., dancer and found Mee lying on the floor, his head on a pillow and cotton over the neck wound. He called other men of his command and took Mee out for medical attention.

Mee was shot last April 8. He died five days later. Miss Schmidt, 22, who testified at the start of the oft-delayed trial two months ago that she shot him in terror and by accident, is on trial for murder.

She appeared animated and in good spirits when she entered the Audiencia court, accompanied by two soldiers with rifles. She wore a black skirt, a flowered blouse and had a cross dangling from a neck chain. She carried a Spanish shawl. Though the trial was 60 days old, this was but the seventh day of actual hearings.

Arango Granda said Mee remained silent while being removed. He said he saw no bruises on Patricia.

"I could not talk to her because I spoke no Engilsh, but she motioned that she wanted Mee taken to a hospital," he said.

The defense has asserted the treatment from the Navy men was so rough it contributed to Mee's death.

Arango Granda agreed there was considerable bumping while the three men took Mee from the cabin, but said:

"We did the best we could in the narrow space."

Tupper Knife Described in Double Killing

Hollis Tupper, 36, King st., Dorchester, a thin, graying ex-athlete, heard himself described in Superior Court today as standing over the body of a woman friend he had just stabbed to death, muttering, "I've got another job to do," then going to the home of his estranged wife and killing her.

Tupper went on trial for the murder of Miss Helen Kiminski, 32, Beacon st., Brookline, a Lahey Clinic nurse, and his alienated wife, Catherine Tupper, Talbot ave., Dorchester, early on the morning of July 2.

Asst. Dist. Atty. John F. McAuliffe called to the stand Mrs. Mary Tavenner of Washington, a cousin of Mrs. Mary Tupper, the defendant's crippled mother.

Mrs. Tavenner, who was visiting the King st. home, testified that Miss Kiminski arrived there the evening of July 1 to visit Tupper.

She said Tupper took the nurse for a walk when he came home, then brought her back to the house and they sat on the porch for a while.

"I left them there alone," she continued, "but I was awakened by screams at 12:30. I ran from the bedroom. Miss Kiminski was lying on the floor, covered with blood, gasping. Tupper's mother was lying half over her. Tupper was standing there with a knife in his hand."

Mrs. Tavenner said Tupper yielded the knife to her without a struggle, then ran out of the house after mumbling he had "another job" to do.

The state asserts Tupper went to the home of his wife, mother of a 13-year-old girl, who had refused to give him a divorce so he could marry Miss Kiminski, and killed her.

The nurse's father, John Kiminski, 58, a Brookfield farmer, took the stand briefly to tell of Tupper's visits to the farm, but when the prosecutor asked him if he recognized Tupper in court, the father said:

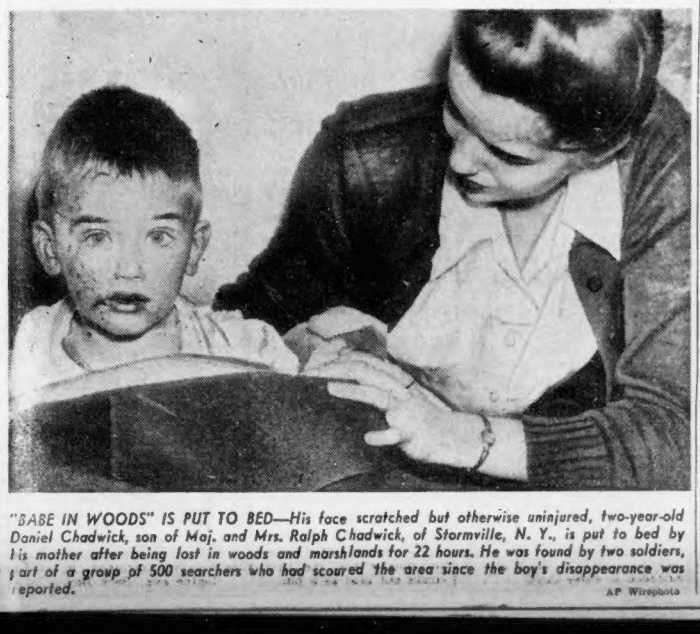
"I don't want to see him—he can go and hide himself."

Scolded Roxbury Girl, 12, Vanishes

Police were today asked to search for a 12-year-old girl who disappeared from home yesterday afternoon, fearful that her mother might find out that she had been reprimanded at school.

Mrs. Doris Hall of Tremont st., Roxbury, told police that her daughter, Wilma, came home from school, but left the house a short while later and has not been seen since.

The missing girl is described as five feet tall, 60 pounds, brown hair and eyes and medium complexion. When last seen she was wearing blue dungarees, red loafers, a red blouse, pink sweater and Navy blue pea-jacket.



"BABE IN WOODS" IS PUT TO BED—His face scratched but otherwise uninjured, two-year-old Daniel Chadwick, son of Maj. and Mrs. Ralph Chadwick, of Stormville, N. Y., is put to bed by his mother after being lost in woods and marshlands for 22 hours. He was found by two soldiers, part of a group of 500 searchers who had scoured the area since the boy's disappearance was reported. AP Wirephoto

Wife Elects Jail for Hubby Then Weeps to See Him Go

A young wife decreed in Suffolk Probate Court today that her former husband should go to jail for failure to provide for the support of their two children, then burst into tears as he was led away to serve a 30-day sentence for contempt.

The unusual situation was set up by Judge Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., when Richard F. Walsh of Union st., Charlestown, was brought before him on a bench warrant, citing him in contempt for being $191 in arrears on an $18 weekly court order.

Walsh had been summonsed to court last Thursday but failed to appear. Yesterday a constable served him with a bench warrant and he appeared today.

Judge Wilson scoffed at his plea he had been unable to obtain work.

"What's your opinion?" Judge Wilson asked Mrs. Walsh.

"I don't know, I think he's had plenty of time," she said hesitantly.

"Jail or not?" asked the judge.

"Yes," she said firmally.

"Thirty days," said the judge. "I guess the old love is dead."

McNULTY WINS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14 (AP)—Dennis Day, born Owen Patrick McNulty, has changed his name back to McNulty.

The singer told the judge he adopted his professional cognomen as his legal name in 1944 but that his parents, the Patrick McNultys' were not pleased. He'll still use the name Dennis Day on the screen and radio, however.

Beverly Fire Destroys Antiques

BEVERLY FARMS, Nov. 14 (INS)—Many priceless antiques and historical treasures were lost today when fire destroyed the old India commercial store, a landmark built in 1668. Loss was estimated at $50,000.

The property, commonly called "Pump Cottage," was owned by r. and Mrs. Hugh C. Ward. They were not at home at the time. Mrs. Ward left Monday to visit friends in Cincinnati.

The fire in the 20-room house was discovered by a woman neighbor who notified firemen. They found flames, fanned by a strong northwest wind, breaking through the roof.

10,000 High School Students To Enter History Title Tests

A total of nearly 10,000 public, parochial and private high school students within the City of Boston, representing 45 schools, were today fully prepared to compete in the fifth annual Hearst Newspapers American History championships to be held Nov. 25th.

The number of contestants expected to participate in the competition is expected to shatter all previous records.

Supt. of Boston Public Schools Dr. Arthur L. Gould stated that greater interest was being shown by students this year in the competition.

ALL SENIORS COMPETE

"It is expected that practically all senior class members of the public Day and Latin schools in the city will compete in the examinations. Arrangements have been completed to set aside special classrooms to hold the exams in during the morning school hours. It is hoped that a good representation of public high students will be listed among the first 25 winners to be selected."

Rev. Cornelius T. H. Sherlock superintendent of schools, Boston Archdiocese, stated:

"A large percentage of our high school enrollment in the City of Boston is anxiously looking forward to the examinations. We will have more contestants competing this year and all diocesan high schools will be represented."

BRUSHING UP

The chance to win national and local honors in the competition has students busy brushing up on American history during the past few weeks.

The test is based on history between the years 1781 and 1825, including the Constitution of the United States.

Fire Opened On Marseille Red Rioters

By MARCEL GREFFEUILLE

MARSEILLE, Nov. 14 (INS)—Small-arms fire was directed at Communist party headquarters in Marseille today as the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor called for a virtual general strike in the turbulent port city.

Leaders of the local unions appealed to non-striking workers to join in the already widespread walkouts from noon today until Saturday morning to coincide with funeral services for a Communist killed in Wednesday's rioting.

Shopkeepers also were urged to close their stores.

Traffic was halted temporarily on some of the city's streets when strikers attempted to block streetcars and trucks. Police dispersed the demonstrators.

Port facilities of the sprawling Mediterranean port were paralyzed by a walkout of dock laborers and sailors yesterday which brought the total of strikes in "Red" Marseille to 80 per cent.

Thirteen thousand troops and police guarded the turbulent city last night following the walkouts which involved 40,000 to 50,000 Communist-led workers.

Italian Leftists Voice Threat of Civil War

ROME, Nov. 14 (AP)—Italy's powerful left, seething with suppressed anger since Premier Alcide De Gasperi kicked it out of the cabinet last May, was openly and admittedly on the warpath today, sounding warnings of civil war.

During turbulent constituent assembly debate last night over prolonged violence sweeping the entire peninsula, Communist Giuseppe Di Vittorio, leader of the big General Labor Confederation, grimly declared:

"If you want to save the country from the misfortune of civil war, it will be necessary for the government to observe the democratic legality of dissolving Fascist organizations rather than imbuing them with the hope of rising again and taking over power anew."

Friendship Train Now 81 Carloads

CLINTON, Ia., Nov. 14 (AP)—The Friendship Train headed East into Illinois today with 22 more carloads of food for hungry Europe collected during a 36-hour swing through Iowa.

Contributions of wheat, corn, oats and other foodstuffs from the Hawkeye State swelled the goodwill cargo to 81 carloads.

Tonight in Chicago the train will be made into two sections and they will travel eastward to New York on two separate lines. Several additional carloads of food are to be attached to the trains in Chicago.

The biggest contribution it picked up in Iowa was a consignment of seven carloads of oats at Cedar Rapids.

Farmer Sam Myers furnished one of the unusual offerings when he turned over to the train at Marshalltown a ton of honey produced on his farm near State Center.

A newspaper photo led today to the identification at City Hospital of an amnesia victim as Mrs. Jean Sierzega, 26, Portchester, N. Y., whose mother died recently in Dorchester.

Mrs. Sierzega was found suffering from exposure in a Dorchester doorway. Dorothy Henderson, Dorchester ave., a friend identified her.

N. E. Told Use Less Gasoline, Fuel Oil

Although the petroleum industry forecast no immediate critical shortage of gasoline and fuel oil in New England, they issued a warning to the motoring public today that unless moderation is practised, a definite shortage will be felt soon.

The appeal to use less gas follows a scheduled 4 per cent reduction this winter in gasoline and petroleum products and a climbing rate of consumption which is over-reaching refineries by 200,000 barrels a day. A barrel contains 42 gallons.

Eight of New England's major oil companies, recommending a "walk more and ride less" policy today, pointed out that nearly two gallons of gasoline are delivered daily to every man, woman and child in the U. S.

The effect of this high consumption, greater than the wartime peak year of 1945, will be to steadily deplete the country's overtaxed stock piles, they added.

OVERSEAS YULE DEADLINE

Postmaster Patrick J. Connelly today warned that tomorrow is the last day for mailing Christmas packages to members of the U. S. armed forces abroad for assured Yuletide delivery. He also urged that packages for civilians overseas be mailed at once.

Price Prober Raps Fishermen's Union

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP) —Sen. Flanders (R.) of Vermont, chairman of a Senate subcommittee which investigated consumer prices in eastern states, declared today practices of the North Atlantic Fishermen's Union constitute "an outrageous operation in restraint of trade."

"It is a purposeful move by a union," he told a news conference, "to raise the price of fish."

Asked by a reporter whether the matter had been referred to the Justice department, Flanders replied "That might be a good idea."

MEAT CLUB

RYE, N. Y., Nov. 14 (INS) —A Rye butcher, appalled that his customers had reduced meat purchases to the detriment of family health, is selling at wholesale plus a flat weekly service fe of $1.25.

Rocco Martino put his system into effect a week ago. Each family is given a card which is punched once for each week. There are no restrictions on the amount of meat that may be bought.

'LITTLE ASSEMBLY' FUND

FLUSHING MEADOWS, N. Y., Nov. 14 (INS)—The United Nations' budget committee recommended an outlay of $180,000 for the 1948 requirements of the "Little Assembly"—in the event it is established.

Lane Urges U. S. Facts for Europe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP) —Backing up the Marshall Plan with an information program "that will tell the people of surope what we are doing, and why," was urged today by Rep. Lane, (D) of Massachusetts.

"Only in this way," he said, "can we make and hold the friends we need in Europe," and pull the rug from under the Red propogandists who are working night and day to discredit our motives and make the Marshall Plan fail."

Thes Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

SEN. ROBERT A. TAFT, chairman of the Republican policy committee and presidential candidate, has joined the debate on the Marshall Plan. But he does not hop on the band wagon. He asks questions and formulates a policy which may be stated simply: We give what we can afford to give. If we give more than we can afford to give, we must ultimately damage ourselves as well as the beneficiary.

And he raises the question of taxes. What right has Speaker Joe Martin or anybody else to decline to consider the problem of taxes when that is actually the most important issue before the American people today? For we, as a people, are being squeezed between high taxes and high prices until our standard of living is constantly being lowered.

This is due to government policy which stimulates prices, produces shortages, exports abroad material essential for home consumption and then shouts, "Stop inflation!" Taft challenges the administration's dictum that the individual American is not to be trusted with his own money.

TAFT SAID before the Ohio Society:

"If we want the Marshall Plan, we cannot have lower prices. If we want lower prices, we have to give up the Marshall Plan. The Marshall Plan may be worth the cost, but let's be realistic and face the fact that there is a cost."

Taft's view means that there will be a fight in the Senate over costs as there will be a fight in both the House and the Senate over the method of aid. There will be no smooth sailing. Senator Taft not only feels that the Marshall figure is too high but that the Harriman figure, which is lower, is too high.

And that raises another question, namely, why cannot the administration present a single plan with a table of costs? So far there have been four separate administration reports: The Krug, the Nourse, the Harriman and the Marshall reports in that order, and on Monday President Truman speaks.

When these various documents are read in relation to the Bevin report, which is the overall European (16 to 1) statement, the confusion grows so confounded and complex that nobody can make head or tail as to precisely how much is involved and by what method it is to be spent, and who is to do the spending.

The Nourse report was unbelievably stupid, for it would control one commodity but not its related commodity, which means that while, let us say, wheat disappears from the market because it is controlled, the price of corn skyrockets because it is not controlled.

Harriman goes along with Nourse a little way but not very far. His remarks on the subject were carefully ambiguous.

Incidentally, I want to refer to a telegram which Henry L. Stimson sent confidentially to what seems to be hundreds of persons. Four copies of this confidential document lie on my desk sent me for publication.

This is a high-powered propaganda document which must have cost plenty to send out and, curiously enough, Mr. Stimson offers to pay the cost of each recipient's reply. Referring to the Marshall Plan, the Stimson telegram says:

". . . We must take part in this work; we must take our full part; we must be sure that we do enough. We should act quickly. The penalty of delay in reconstruction is to increase the size of the job and to multiply difficulties. We require a prompt and large-scale program . . ."

Do you remember the hysterical propaganda for the British loan? The words were almost the same. Bob Taft can report that he was not sucked into that dishonesty.

Tight Safeguards For Royal Bridal

LONDON, Nov. 14 (AP)—Scotland Yard disclosed today the tightest security net in its history will guard Princess Elizabeth and her bridegroom on their wedding day next Thursday.

Nearly half of London's 15,000 police will line the mile route of the wedding procession: 6500 uniformed bobbies and 500 plain-clothes men.

Every building along Whitehall, where many government offices as well as some private business buildings aer located, will be searched. Persons who have sold "window rights" for a clear view of the procession have sent the yard lists of their customers.

Detective details also have been assigned to visiting royalty to keep a round-the-clock watch on their safety.

Production Boost Vital, Says Cahners

INDIANAUOLIS, Nov. 14—Mechanization of American labor is the only method by which the free enterprise system of this country can survive the "inexitable slash with totalitarian economies," Norman L. Cahners, Boston expert on materials handling, told the Indiana Safety Conference meeting here.

Foreign low cost, Cahners warned, is a grave threat to American economic stability. To meet this challenge he said, the American must answer with increased production per worker through mechanical aids and modern methods of handling goods and getting them to market.

Cahners, who operates the nation's only shipping and handling analysis laboratory, told more than 1000 delegates that if Democracy is to win the struggle it must achieve this super-abundance of production without surrendering the average workman's standard of living.

"The closer we approach copiete mechanization," he said, the more skilled American labor will become, the more money our workmen will earn, and the better will be their living and working conditions."

The only way to continue the present American standard of living, he continued is to preserve America's fair prices and shorter hours in competition with what amounts to coolie wages being paid in one-third of the world, and at the same time strive to increase our production per man.

Cahners is widely known for his working in speeding production by the use of mechanical aids. He has found that with such equipment one man can do the work formerly done by five, but all five men are kept on their jobs because other innovations in mechandising quadrupled the amount of business done under Cahners' direction in furniture and other mechandise.

Gen. Hodge, Korea Chief, Urges UMT

By RAY RICHARDS

Special Cable Dispatch to the Boston Evening American

SEOUL, Nov. 14—Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, in a position especially qualifying him to judge the need for a strong national defense, today appealed for inauguration by America of a system of universal military training.

The commander of the armed forces in Korea said an adequate American defense would have prevented World Wars I and II, and can now stop World War III.

He described UMT as "not a system of aggression but a method of peace."

SOLDIER SUPPLY

Had UMT existed during the last two years, Hodge declared, enough soldiers with professional military inclinations would have been sent into the army to garrison world danger spots far better than at present.

"I do not mean creation of a huge professional army is the main objective of universal military training," he continued, "but I am merely pointing out we seem to need trained soldiers. We are not getting them in sufficient numbers under the present recruiting system.

"Universal military training means peace, not war.

U. S. WEAK TODAY

"Germany would not have carried or offensive acts against the U. S. before World War I if we thus had been prepared.

"Japan never would have attacked Pearl Harbor and embroiled us in World War II had we been sufficiently conscious of actualities to have adopted universal military training.

"Today we once again are tragically weak in a dangerous situation. Our costly Navy is not properly manned and our Army is unable to put one adequately trained and equipped homeland division into the field.

"How many lessons must we have?

"How many lives of untrained youths must we sacrifice before we realize that aggressors will not even threaten us if we are ready first, fast and hard before they start."

OVER-COATS

WITH IN-BUILT LASTING GOOD LOOKS

If you need an overcoat—treat yourself to a Kennedy quality overcoat. It's not what you pay for an overcoat, but what you get in tailoring—fabric—lasting appearance and durability that counts.

Most overcoats look neat and trim the day you buy them,—but here at Kennedy's we are more concerned with what your coat will look like after months of Winter wear. We are equally concerned with your comfort while you are wearing it. That is why we insist upon fabrics and tailoring that will give you "bug-in-the-rug" warmth without wearing you down with weight.

Prepare now to protect yourself against the freezing blasts of a New England winter. It may be late coming but we have yet to escape one.

Meyers

Maj.-Gen. Junius W. Jones, inspector for the Air Forces. It developed testimony that Jones' office never investigated Meyers' financial affairs although:

1—The FBI turned over to the War Department in 1945 an anonymous letter saying Meyers made "immense profits" from buying stock in concerns he knew, as a result of his army position, would receive big contracts.

2 The major general telephoned Jones in 1943 and said he feared that Gen. Meyers might get into control of surplus property and hoped something could be done to avoid that."

After Jones, the committee called Isiah Matlack, chief of war frauds section of the justice Department. He testified the FBI would have investigated the charges in the anonymous letter if the matter had been within its jurisdiction.

$3000 POKER STAKES

Chairman Ferguson (R.) of Michigan, asked if the FBI agreed with Gen. Jones that it was a "crackpot letter."

"Not according to some I've seen," Matlack replied. "It appears to be an intelligent letter."

While Jones was on the stand, Ferguson asked whether the general had heard that Meyers "played for stakes in poker games as high as $3000." Jones said he had heard rumors about "large poker games" but not for any specific amounts.

Ferguson and William Rogers, committee counsel, pressed Jones as to why he or other Air Force leaders had not investigated complaints and "rumors" about Gen. Meyers before Meyers retired from the Army in 1945 with $461 monthly pay for life.

Rogers asked Jones whether it would be embarrassing to the Air Force to know that one of its officers held stock in an aircraft company.

More Army Men Assigned Greece

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (INS) —Army Sec. Royall announced today that 90 U. S. officers and 80 enlisted men are being added to the American Military Mission to Greece at the request of that government.

Royall said the addition has been approved by Defense Sec. Forrestal nd the State Department.

He said the men "will provide personnel to furnish military advice to Greek Army staffs down to the division level."

There are now 26 officers and 14 men on duty with the Greek Army.

N. J. Hearing on Suspect In Sturtevant Holdup

Several defense witnesses were called to testify today in Newark, N. J., at an extradition hearing in the case of Joseph Bellina, 38, whose removal to Boston as a suspect in the $110,000 Sturtevant blower plant payroll holdup last Oct. 31 is being sought by Boston police.

During yesterday's session of the hearing, FBI Agent Grover C. Currig testified Bellina was indicted by the federal grand jury last week here on a charge of unlawful flight to escape prosecution after he had been accused of participating in the holdup.

10,000 Jap Pupils Ask New School Program

TOKYO, Nov. 14 (AP) Some 10,000 Japanese school children waving red flags, asked early establishment of the six-three-three educational system. This involves six years attendance at elementary school and three at middle school with student option on attending higher school for three more years. They carried banners inscribed, "Please increase our budget," and "give us warm classrooms."

Care of Wounded in Frozen Warfare Stressed by Expert

Army experimentation on snow covered and frozen battlefields has shown that finding and evacuation of wounded is one of the great problems, Lt. Col. F. J. Knobblauch, of the Army's Ft. Knox laboratory, declared today at the Association of Military Surgeons' convention at Hotel Statler.

Clothing presented another great problem in frozen warefare, he said, since battle dress sufficient to keep a man farm when resting becomes too warm when he is working or fighting.

One of the principal diffciulties in caring for the wouAded, he said, was that of locating casualties wearing uniform camouflage, particularly in areas where visibility was low.

He also declared that some form of sled or snow boat would replace litters for carrying out wounded since "litter bearing is tremendously exhausting" in snow-covered areas.

He said cold weather fighting was hard on medical supplies since solutions often froze during shipment and storage. Drinking water, he added, must be stored in heated tanks.

Col. Tom F. Whayne, chief of the Army's preventitive medicine division, said Army medical men hoped for peaceful international exchange of knowledge but at the same time realized the nation must be prepared for war.

Martin Says Congress Must Cut Taxes, Prices

Warning against subversive attempts to overthrow the government and install a dictatorship in the United States in the event of a depression, Speaker of the House Joseph W. Martin, Jr., declared that Congress must reduce taxes and cut high prices, in an address before the Quincy Taxpayers' Ass'n.

"We cannot forget there is a very strong and continuous drive against free government and our American way of life," Martin said. "Neither dare we forget that subversionists in this country will try to create resentment through heavy taxation and high prices."

Bone Find Gives Clue on Man-Ape

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 14 (AP)—The finding of fossilized bone of animals which may throw more light on the man-ape australopithecus which lived in Africa 500,000 to 3,000,000 years ago was reported today by Dr Samuel Welles, University of California paleontologist.

The bones were found by a party of the university's South African expedition.

A dozen baboon skulls and fossil bones of antelope and golden moles were included in the find. These will tell scientists something about the environment of the man-ape.

The first fossil bones of the ancient man-ape, which possibly is much older than anything of its kind heretofore unearthed, were found several years ago near Johannesburg by Dr. Robert Broom, South African scientist.

Donald Nelson Plans Fourth Trip to Altar

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—Donald M. Nelson, 59, former chief of the War Production Board, obtained a license to marry Valerie Edna May Rowell, 31.

Nelson's first wife was the late Estelle Land. His second marriage to Helen Ingledue, ended in divorce in January, 1945, and his third wife, the late Marguerite Coulburn, died this year.

Community Fund Now Within Sight of Goal

The 1948 Greater Boston Community Fund campaign stood today at $5,003,492, which, with five days remaining, holds out hope of the minimum goal figure of $6,600,000 being realized.

The Advanced Crafts division, which annually accounts for about 18 per cent of the campaign total, reported a cheerful 100.2 per cent of its quota.

'Atom' Vandalism Laid to CIO Union

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (INS)—A spokesman for the North Electric Manufacturing Co. at Galion, O., charged today "masked vandals" destroyed equipment intended for the Atomic Energy Commission during labor troubles with the CIO United Auto Workers' Union.

Robert Jamison of Cleveland, company attorney, testified before Rep. Hoffman (R.) of Michigan, holding hearings as a one-man House labor subcommittee.

Jamison testified the vandalism occurred at the company's Kenton plant within a few hours after Edward J. Duck, UAW international representative, warned him of direct consequences unless settlement of the strike was made.

The attorney told Hoffman some 20 to 30 "masked men carrying guns" overpowered the plant guard and destroyed $25,000 worth of machinery and finished equipment.

14 Flee in Nightclothes At $3500 Watertown Fire

Clad in nightclothes, 14 occupants of a three-story wooden apartment house in Commonwealth rd., Watertown, fought their way to safety through smoke filled rooms when a two alarm fire caused $3500 damage to the property early today.

Patricia Leary, 7 months, was rescued by her father who carried her, shielded in his arms, through the blazing rooms.

Mother Keeps VigilFor Sea Victim

REDONDO BEACH, Cal., Nov. 14 (AP)—Formal search for the body of Natalie Striegel, 18, who perished in the crash of a light plane into the sea Nov. 4, has been abandoned, but her mother, Mrs. L. M. Striegel, maintains a daily surfside vigil in the hope her daughter's body will be washed ashore.

Lifeguards said today that Mrs. Striegel ever since the crash has made a daily patrol of the beach, staying there from early morning until sundown when her husband meets her and takes her home.

The plane and the body of the pilot, Hugo Poppe, were recovered two days after the crash, but divers were unable to locate Miss Striegel. She was seen momentarily on the plane's wing a few seconds after the crash.

Lodge Warns on Need Of Adequate U. S. Defense

In a report to Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of the Senate foreign relations committee, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge warned that the most vital single factor underlying American foreign policy was the matter of adequate national defense. He criticized the weakness of the armed forces and asserted the Army and Air forces were below minimum strength.

"Certainly our words will not be heeded abroad if our military defenses are weak," he pointed out.

Phoebe Apperson Hearst Honored by Parents' Group

By DAN MARKEL

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 — Supreme Court justices, cabinet members, congressional leaders and their wives today honored the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the memory of its founders, Mrs. Alice McLellan Birney and Mrs. Phoebe Apperson Hearst, at a golden jubilee reception.

Mrs. Harold Walker, daughter of the late Mrs. Birney, was hostess at the distinguished event, held in her Massachusetts ave. home.

Assisting were:

Mrs. Fred M. Vinson, wife of the chief justice of the Supreme Court; Mrs. Stanley Reed, wife of the associate justice; Mrs. Tom C. Clark, wife of the attorney general; Mrs. John W. Snyder, wife of the secretary of the Treasury; Mrs. Alice Longworth, daughter of the late Pres. Theodore Roosevelt; Mrs. Kenneth C. Royall, wife of the new secretary of the Dept. of the Army; Mrs. Tom Connally, wife of the senior senator from Texas, and Mrs. Joseph R. Farrington, wife of the delegate from Hawaii.

GUEST OF HONOR

Mrs. Louis Wearen Hughes, of Arlington, Tenn., national president of the Congress of Parents and Teachers, was a guest of honor.

Handsome booklets, relating the golden jubilee history of the organization that Mrs. Birney and Mrs. Hearst founded in 1897, were presented to guests.

The booklets carried photographs of the founders and of the Washington, D. C., home of the late Mrs. Hearst, where a group of women concerned with child welfare and improved educational standards first met to plan the organization that now has more than 28,000 local associations and 5,000,000 members.

FALSE TEETH That loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

HOSIERY (212) MAIN BASEMENT

HAVE WE NOT LEARNED?

IN APPROVING the Marshall Plan—as evidently it will do—Congress should be guided by our expensive experiences with Lend-Lease and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Those two ventures cost the American people many billions of dollars.

The purpose of Lend-Lease was to help win the war; and to win not only the fighting phase, but also the postwar objectives which we declared to be ours.

If these objectives—which included the terms of the Atlantic Charter—had been attained, there would be no "Iron Curtain" now enclosing all of Eastern Europe, and France and Italy would not lie almost helpless today in the shadow of Communism.

No firm commitments were obtained from Soviet Russia in decent consideration of the eleven billion dollars in Lend-Lease which Russia received.

INSTEAD, the principles of the Atlantic Charter were abandoned at Teheran and Yalta; and as Germany went down in defeat, our troops were drawn back to permit a Russian advance to the banks of the Elbe where the Russians now stand.

We had required nothing enforceable from the Kremlin, and we deprived ourselves of the means of enforcing anything anyhow.

Similarly, in dispensing further billions in UNRRA, we took no measures toward using the vast expenditures constructively to restore a sound European economy and to make Europe self-supporting ance more.

Now we are paying the price of our own folly.

The Truman program in Greece and Turkey, and the Marshall Plan for Western Europe, are belated efforts, at our own expense, to do what should have been done before, and to resist a Communist menace which in some areas begins to look irresistible.

Congress should beware that the Marshall Plan does not prove to be equally futile.

For if it should, we may find when the spending is over that our donations have merely been nurturing Communism — through Socialism, if not directly.

Some suggestions have already been offered, and should not be scorned.

Secretary of State Marshall has told the Senate foreign relations committee that the German economy must be restored.

This is a complete reversal of the so-called Morgenthau Plan to denude Germany of virtually all production except agriculture and to reduce the German people to a perpetual state of pastoral poverty.

THE NATIONAL Association of Manufacturers has advised President Truman on several particulars, among them that the beneficiary nations be required to stabilize their economies, to balance their budgets and to adopt sane fiscal policies; that they abandon during the relief period all further nationalization projects; that free enterprise, rather than state monopolies, be fostered by our dispensations; and that a continuation of aid be made conditional upon performance.

This is vastly better advice than the proposal of the Harriman committee that foreign aid be extended regardless of the Socialistic or presumably the Communistic policies of the governments of Europe.

During the war, the members of the National Association of Manufacturers fabricated some 80 per cent of our munitions and other tools of victory.

In the attempted rehabilitation of Europe, their production will be of similar consequence, since it is goods and not dollars that we are really being asked to send abroad.

The Administration should be glad to get the counsel of the nation's industrialists, and glad to heed it.

Otherwise, we shall know that the Administration has learned nothing from its Lend-Lease and UNRRA experiences, and that this country is going on another wasteful and useless ride.

Once did my thoughts both ebb and flow
As passion did them move
Once did I hope, straight fear again
And then I was in love.
Once in my ear did dangling hang
A little turtle-dove
Once, in a word, I was a fool,
And, then I was in love.
—FLETCHER.

ONE GROUP OF EXPERTS on life among the married says men with big feet make the best husbands. Another says fat men are the most satisfactory spouses. Still another claims bald-headed men are tops as both lovers and husbands. So it would appear a young woman who wants to assure herself of a grade A matrimonial mate should marry a fat, bald-headed man with big feet.

PASSING BY: Carol Greenberg, Wife of Hank, the ballplayer. Carol is a sports celebrity, too. She rides hunters at horse shows ... Jean Dalrymple, Theatrical producer. Owns seven mink coats. I believe this is a Broadway record. But if it isn't, what is? Jean produced the revival of burlesque which has now had a longer run than the original. Maybe that's a Broadway record too ... "Jersey Joe" Wolcott. Scheduled to be the next to meet Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship. Wolcott who is 34 is the father of five children. I don't know of any good reason why he should but I have it in my mind Wolcott is going to give the champion a busy evening. Anyway, I'll be there at the ringside.

Carol Greenberg

ASIDES: A couple of GI Joes have been arguing about the distance on the Champs Elysee, Paris, from Place de la Concorde to the Arc de Triomphe. It is exactly one mile and a half ... An English mother claims her baby cried 12 hours before it was born. Ever hear of anything like that ... It is claimed Miami, Fla., on a basis of percentage of population, is doing more building than any other city in the country. There is a state law against the closed shop in Florida.

HORSES & WOMEN: England has a very active married women's association which battles vigorously for the rights of wives. Also a housewives' league which battles with equal vigor for a fair shake for the home managers. In addition there are a number of British feminine organizations which go to bat strongly for the rights of the female of the species. The recent activities of these groups have British husbands worried.

One alarmed spouse in a letter to an editor said that "when men become nerveless the female seizes power," and expressed the view that is exactly what British women have in mind. He pointed out that in ancient Rome the males became "nerveless" and the Roman matrons promptly seized power. This resulted in a situation in which the wives often "punished their husbands with the indignity of the slipper." Let's give this a thought as to this country, gentlemen. Let us not become "nerveless." You don't want your wife spanking you with a slipper, do you?

BRIEFLY: It was Seymour Hicks who said: "Men do not buy their wives mink coats to keep them warm but to keep them pleasant" ... San Francisco has voted to keep its cable cars. Hooray!

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—At what age should a woman start to consider herself properly referred to as a "spinster" or "old maid?" A—That I couldn't say definitely. However, on St. Catherine's Day, Nov. 25, a number of young women in Paris who think their marriage has been excessively delayed and they have become spinsters or old maids stage a parade. They are called "Catherinettes." To be eligible to participate in this event a girl must be in her twenty-fifth year.

SIDELIGHTS: Doris Morris, Glen Rock, N. J., was nominated for the My Name Is a Poem Club. "The young woman's name does not rhyme," stated MNIAP President Hugh Blue. "But if she has a brother named Horace he is eligible" ... Excerpt from letter of an ex-GI Joe who is inclined to view women with cynicism: "I was serving my twenty-second month in the Pacific when I received a letter from my fiancee saying she had married another man and was returning my ring to my sister."

THE stargazers say Sagittarians make good horse pickers. I haven't much faith in astrology. But the fact remains my girl friend is a Sagittarian and she comes up with some remarkable picks. Olhaverry in the last Santa Anita Handicap for example. Now a San Franciscan tells me a restaurant man he knows, a Sagittarian, gave him eight straight winners. So look up the birthday of your favorite handicapper. If he was born under Sagittarius you may have something.

"And, remember, folks—when you have a cold, do as thousands do—sneeze!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—I have just received a letter from an old comrade of Danny Kaye, the great morale-builder of the movies, who served in the war with him for almost three-quarters of an hour in Grand Central Palace on Dec. 31, 1943. Grand Central Palace was the big store of the draft, the plant in which "all the different groups" as Eleanor the Great, with lofty objectivity, refers to the lower orders of the human race, were stripped to nakedness and, in this dignified condition, answered freedom's call.

Westbrook Pegler

AFTER SOME preliminary remarks, Mr. Kaye's old sidekick in the No-Hundred and Nothinth Battalion of Nothing, begins:

"This brings us to Danny Kaye and back to Dec. 31, 1943.

"I being a resident of East New York, adjoining Brownsville, which is the old home ground of the beloved, in a manner of speaking, 'Kid from Brooklyn,' was registered with Draft Board No. 229 (Danny Kaye's board). I had just turned 18 and was being drafted. I will never forget that day. We were to report to the local board, Sutter and Warwick, or Ashford, street. As we waited around for all the fellows to show up, we were informed that Danny Kaye was registered in this board and would be at Grand Central with us.

"I suppose it was a little too early in the morning or maybe he didn't like to ride the subway, because he didn't go with us, but arrived at the Palace later on. As we sat in the auditorium and were being briefed on what was to come, it was only natural the fellows were trying to pick Danny Kaye out. Which they finally did. Although it wasn't laughing Danny we saw. He gave no response to guys hollering out his name. He seemed very annoyed.

"About three-quarters of the way through is when I next spotted him. I hardly recognized him. He had had his shoulders on—that is to say a well padded suit, etc., but now we were all stripped to our shorts. There was about three other fellows in front of me waiting for the next doctor. And here was Danny Kaye, putting on probably his best performance yet.

"The doc would tell him to bend from the waist. As he did this he gave out with a cry and immediately straightened up as if to say it was impossible to do."

POSSIBLY THAT is what his local board, No. 229, had in mind when it rejected unanimously a request from the U. S. O. that Danny be permitted to go out as an entertainer and insisted that he would go in a soldier suit or not at all.

"He then commenced to explain something to the doc," says Danny's old buddy of somewhat less than an hour in the war against the savage barbarian hordes for the preservation of human liberty. "After which the doc pressed his back with his fingers but only to hear Danny sigh again. By this time, another doctor came over and started examining us. Soon after, I was through with that section and started to move on when I got my last glance at 'The Kid From Brooklyn.' He was attempting a knee bend but had lost his balance unrealistically. If this was his talent that was supposed to have lifted our morale overseas, I was glad I never heard or saw of him while in the service."

Well, that is the way it goes in the rough-and-ready banter of fighting men. This chap went on to do his bit in the dumb crude way of "all the different groups," but Danny went to Ft. Jay for some careful checking and the word came back which caused his local board to comment on his "mental attitude."

And, after a while Danny's whole draft file vanished permanently from the jurisdiction of the boards and he devoted himself unmolested to esthetic works. He is most esthetic when he plays blubberlip and emits a highly spiritual sound something like the drooling of a committed idiot in a lunatic asylum.

Like Frankie Boy Sinatra, another ferocious, though vicarious fighter against the bloody-handed Hun, Danny Kaye was denied his chance to visit the zones of war until they were mere tourist areas. Like Frankie Boy, also, he developed aggressive social and political ideas. Frankie Boy gave $7500 to Roosevelt's fourth campaign fund and developed a case of 4-F eardrum.

Danny Kaye was one of those glamorous gods of the unreal world of romantic enchantment who flew to Washington to protest against the undemocratic procedure of the United States Congress in proving that certain Hollywood Communists were Communists. Back in his beginning days he made comical faces and went "blabbity-blibbety-blub" in a show produced under the political auspices of the New Masses. It is too near closing time for me to try to explain to you the politics of the New Masses. But if you go out and bet the rent that it isn't anti-Joe Stalin, you are shot with luck. G'bye now!

Flash Fire Sweeps Providence Recreation Center

38 Hurt

Likened to a flame-thrower, a flash fire roared through the Rhode Island Recreation Center, North Main st., Providence, sending hundreds fleeing for their lives. Firemen were hampered by strange path of the flames —through ventilating ducts in the building. Damage was estimated at $560,000.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, NOV. 14, 1947

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (INS) —The latest actor's wife to get a yen for a career of her own is Mrs. Kirk Douglas. Under her married name, Diana Douglas, she's been signed for one of the leading roles in "Let's Love Again," the Frank Seltzer-Hugh King movie for 20th. She's a pretty brunette and photographs well.

Mrs. Dick Haymes

Another "Mrs." being considered for a contract is Mrs. Mark Stevens, who made a test at MGM on the Q. T.

Well, sometimes these girls can step out of their domestic lives and do all right for themselves, but it is rare, except in cases where they were actresses before marriage.

The Dick Haymes almost split up because she insisted on a career—but after one fling in "Abie's Irish Rose" she went home to Dick and the kiddies.

And Cornel Wilde's life would have been a lot sweeter if Pat Knight had been willing to stay in the background.

MARK HELLINGER, who knows New York like a blood relative, also has a "New York voice." After listening to a dozen professional narrators, Billy Goetz decided that no one sounded more like a typical New Yorker than Mark, so, it will be his voice you hear all through "Naked City."

They are also trying something new with the "credits"—that long list of titles as to who produces, directs and writes a movie. Mark will "talk" the credits, even to announcing himself as producer.

HERE'S SOME good news for Paul Douglas. Harry Cohn's in town. I just talked to him. He says he's going to give Paul Douglas a test for "Born Yesterday," and will fly him to the coast to have it made right. If Paul photographs the way we expect, the job will be his. Paul is still doing a magnificent acting job in the hit play on Broadway.

"You mean, I can take a bow," I asked.

"You may," said Cohn.

THE NEW YORK whirl continues with me whirling with the best of them. I'm not only bringing you chit-chat about Hollywood people who are here, but also about the goings on of society.

Jules Glaenzer, one of Manhattan's favorite hosts, tossed an elegant soiree, but our own Edgar Bergen stole the show. Elsa Maxwell and Adele Astaire Cavendish Douglass almost fell off the divan when "Professor Ersaltwing," a daffy guy who talks about birds, gave his lecture.

Sat next to Mrs. Cornelius Dresslyhuys. She's young and pretty and the mother of the also lovely debutante, Louise. Mrs. Frank Delany, whose daughter, Virginia Leigh, is said to be the Brenda Frazier of this year, invited me to Virginia's coming out party Saturday.

But pretty as all the society women were, Frances Bergen was something to behold. She was one of the best lookers and had the "new look" too.

Earlier I had gone to a party Madeleine Martin Hoffman and Elyse Hunt gave for Lord and Lady Queensbury. Mrs. Bernardo Cortwright, Pat Smart, George Sanders (without a girl this time) and Carmen Figueroa were all having fun. Mrs. Hoffman is the mother of Spencer and Stu Martin, and is Angela Greene's mother-in-law.

JOAN BENNETT'S pretty 18-year-old daughter, wants no part of an acting career. Without saying a word to anybody, Diana went down to Bullock's-Wilshire and got herself a job as model and salesgirl.

It's the first step in what she really wants—to work in the art and advertising department. This is the reason she has been attending art school at night and I hear her sketches are excellent.

Joan, and Diana's step-father, Walter Wanger, are pretty proud of her, and if you ask me, this second generation of young Hollywooders is something to be proud of.

NEWS that Greer Garson, who went off to Boston last week-end presumably for a visit with a friend, had actually gone into a hospital under an assumed name for an operation, was a big surprise.

Never had Greer seemed so gay or in better spirits. I knew she had not been feeling well, but didn't realize it was serious. Greer wired me and minimized the operation. She said it was a minor one and she'd be all right and back in New York in a few days

I certainly hope so. I don't like the idea of Greer going away by herself. When you are sick you need to be with the people you love and who love you.

SNAPSHOTS of New York and Hollywood collected at random: Heard the "ohhhhhs" all the way to New York when Clark Gable and Lady Sylvia Ashley walked into Ciro's. And very interested in each other they were, too.

Lady Sylvia Ashley

Maxie Rosenbloom, boulevardier and bon vivant, asked Billy Gilbert if there was a part for him in the Chicago company of "The Chocolate Soldier." Billy said, "Maybe—if you think you could handle a monologue." To which Rosenbloom replied, "Monologue? I wore one in my eye all the time in London!"

Lanny Ross, in better voice and handsomer than ever, is at the New York Biltmore here. I went to his opening with Olive, his wife, and it was a delightful evening.

Met Miss Christina Berlin for the first time and I never coveted anything as much as I did that baby. She's the cutest thing. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Berlin. Two other Berlin children are blondes, but Christina is a brunette.

Alice Faye's brother, Bill, who is about to be divorced, is concentrating on Dorothea Richmond, Beverly Hills shop owner.

The Monty Shaffs expect a baby in May. He's the producer of "Man Eaters of Kumaon." Incidentally, I hear that Monty and Frank Rosenberg have signed Sabu for this picture—his first romantic role. He gets the girl.

Belita has sold her entire ice show, "Rhapsody on Ice," to Al Morris and Bert Gerzis for $25,000—and her understudy, 18-year-old Jean Arlen, takes it on tour.

Too bad Buz Berkeley got in such a row he's been banned from the Warner lot. Jack gave him a job when he was down and out and needed a hand.

Henry Koster, back in Hollywood, may direct "Mayerling" for the Hakins.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

JOHN GARFIELD THINKS YOUR COLUMNIST looks like a professor in a medical school. (But those cadavers, John!) Well, your columnist thinks John Garfield looks exactly like a champion prize-fighter who has just been knocked out . . . That should be particularly damaging to John (isn't around, is he?) because in his current film he's a champeen . . . We walked into his room (pardon us, suite) at the Statler, and there was John, flat on his back on the rug with his feet on a chair. (At least, his feet were comfortable.) But is that any way for a movie star to greet the press? . . . And (don't tell him we told you) he was reading the nation's toughest (eats nails) movie critic, who as you might guess says John is simply wonderful in "Body and Soul" and, if the film doesn't draw billions and gross millions, he's going to take up raising asparagus (grows just like grass, really).

SECRET of John's accomplishment (feet on the chair, back flat on the rug, please) is that it drains the blood where it belongs: head and heart. (The military surgeons were meeting on the mezzanine) . . . But what shocked us about it was that we have lived here for nigh on to 50 years and this upstart, who has slugged his way into your hearts from the gutters of New York learned it the first day (and the only day) he ever was here . . . Imagine five feet seven and a half of tanned-skin he-man reposing on his spine reading a mag. Imagine him shouting: "Hey, why don't you do something constructive — get us a drink, and get me a box of aspirin." . . . Imagine him, with his jet black hair and 158 pounds of fighting-trim, swinging into his shirt and pants, and shouting: "Where's that stink water?" . . . And all cologned-up, vanishing to keep radio dates and an appointment with a crowd of kids who sell papers on the sidewalks of the West End . . . This guy folks, is tough. But has he personality? Plus! . . . Only 34, and 15 years married to the same gal . . . Imagine!

DON'T WORRY any more about "Peggy" Shea. Fired by the "Big Brass"—the phrase is not ours, but was coined by the veterans' organizations — "Peggy" was grabbed by "Bill" Blake . . . That means she won't work in New England headquarters of the Veterans' Administration any longer, but will work in the Massachusetts office . . . Is that complicated? Well, remember it this way: "Peggy" is practically a YD veteran, and your old friend in the YD has found her a place. She probably will get more money, too . . . Paul Whelton's new mystery thriller about Boston will be named "Women are Skin Deep." Well? . . . Once upon a time there were two men here selling Mary Warner cigarets (marijuana, some call them). And they were sent back to Canada. But the brother of a prominent (and very exceptional) government official (in Boston? oh, my, yes) vouched for them, saying they lived at his address. So, they are still with us . . . And selling Mary Warners? Probably catnip, because four out of five of those things are catnip. You can't be sure of anything nowadays.

WE CAN TOP that story of Cleveland Amory's about Harvard provincialism. Did you read it? President A. Lawrence Lowell's secretary told a caller: "The President has gone to Washington to see Mister Taft." . . . It seems that President Sam Felton of Harvard wrote Abraham Lincoln during the war years (Abe had other problems, of course) that his son, Robert, had been caught smoking in Harvard sq! Tsk! Tsk! . . . And while this has nothing to do with Boston Robert Todd Lincoln is the only man who ever lived who saw TWO presidents assassinated (Lincoln and McKinley) and heard the shot fired when a third (Garfield) was slain . . . Can you top that?

RANDOM MEMORY of a roving Bostonian: We learned how to eat artichokes from Mrs. Wellington Koo, wife of the Chinese ambassador to the United States, at the Avenida Palace in Lisbon. Well, where did YOU learn to eat em? . . . Now, getting local, the Foxboro horse track will NOT be used for a state fair. That will dispel the fears of the county fair people hereabouts, who have worried . . . "Buddy" Rogers, who once broke hearts in Technicolor, will be in Boston Nov. 24, and for three days. It all has to do with "Sleep, My Love," my-love being Claudette Colbert. "Buddy" produced it . . . That chap sitting next to you at the State or Orpheum might be Bob Roberts, who directed the film. He's that serious. He wants to see if you sit on the edge of your chair when he figured you would. His first picture. If he works that way, you can expect great things.

UNIFORMS, pretty ones, too, of Mexico, Brazil, the Argentine, Ireland, Australia and Denmark are wandering about the Statler (filled with men, naturally) just because the American Association of Military Surgeons is holding a convention . . . We talked with Dr. Win Adams, one of the original Veterans Administration men, and Dr. Burrier, who headed Bedford Veterans Hospital until Dr. Adams recently returned there. Dr. Burrier, who has had a tough siege of illness, is looking pert . . . Veterans Administration big brass arrives today. That is Gen. Hawley, medical chief. Some columnists say he will be the next VA chief. He will not . . . Last Monday we told about that Worcester exam for superintendent, bureau of sewers, and predicted that it would be canceled. It was, late yesterday.

Washington Scene

Copyright, 1947, King Features Synd., Inc.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14— My social secretary, Mrs. Tabitha Talcott Pratt, came snorting in today like a pot-bellied dragon and declared that all red-blooded American women were up in arms.

"That little snip!" she erupted. "Not inviting the dear duchess to her wedding!"

I said I presumed she was referring to Princess Elizabeth and the Duchess of Windsor. Tabby replied she certainly was, adding that it was an outrage not to be tolerated.

"We women of America," she declaimed, "do not propose to take this insult lying down!"

"Why not?" I asked. "It'd be more restful."

Tabby paused only long enough to give me a Prattian glare and continued:

"It is an affront to all American womanhood. We women of America are demanding that the dear duchess be invited."

"You mean," I asked, "that all the women in the United States have gotten together and decided to put the heat on the British Empire? . This is indeed sensational. I would have sworn there were dames in this country who didn't give a darn."

"I would, too," interposed Miss Reid. "Until this old thistlebag told me, I had no idea I was up in arms."

MRS. PRATT turned a deeper shade of magenta and retorted that, naturally, she was not speaking for riff-raff.

"But the better element among our American womanhood," she continued, "are indignant. We may even demand that Marshall-plan aid to Britain be withheld if the dear duchess remains ostracized."

This seemed a little strong, even for Mrs. Pratt. I asked if she really meant we should go to such lengths just to wangle an invite for the ex-Wallis Simpson.

"I certainly do," declared Tabby. "As a matter of fact that is just what we are demanding. But we are determined to give that little snip a fair chance. We are writing to her urging her to reconsider."

"You mean," I gasped, "that you are writing to Princess Elizabeth telling her whom she has to invite to her own wedding? I suppose she has answered promptly?"

"She has not. We have learned that all our letters are being forwarded to Marlborough House, the home of Queen Mother Mary, and she is being so unmannerly as to ignore them. That's breeding for you!"

-:-

I said I had read somewhere that Queen Mary had been brought up very well. Mrs. Pratt retorted that any lady who did not answer her mail was no lady.

"But," she added, sinisterly, "the old Queen may sing a different tune, because we are also writing to State Sec'y Marshall, and if he cuts out Marshall plan aid, she won't get any new hats. How do you think she will like that?"

"I dunno," I murmured, "but never let it be said that the sour cream of American womanhood could ever be guilty of minding its own business."

LIKE a military tactician, Sen. Taft is gathering all the intelligence he can on the foe. He is currently reading: "Dewey, an American of This Century."

MR. GEORGE MURPHY, the movie star, who came here with fellow-actor Gary Cooper and Director Leo McCrarey to testify on Hollywood Communism, turns in this interesting report:

"Dear George: We had a very fine trip home, in spite of the fact that I had a little trouble with McCrarey. He insisted that when one took off on such a long journey one should carry plenty of supplies—so he bought all the sandwiches in the Washington airport, and not being equipped with an old-time shoe box, I had to put them in my brief case.

"I am glad the brief case was of some use, as I generally carry nothing in it but my driver's license, and only take it on trips to Washington so that I may create an Anthony Eden-ish atmosphere. I also keep for this purpose an umbrella and a homburg hat, weather permitting.

"Of course the whole town here is still talking about the investigation, and I find that the so-called unfriendly witnesses have become exactly that. None of them has spoken to me since my return, which is all right with me, as I have been addicted to talking to myself ever since I worked in the coal mines. I sincerely hope that the conclusions of the committee will bring about some definition and clarification to this most important situation, which we all feel is so necessary."

I SEE WHERE Eritrea's wedding gift to Princess Elizabeth will be 1500 cans of lard.

Be careful, Lillibet! Didn't Philip ever tell you to beware of grease bearing gifts?

Pershing Loses Offices Given Him for Life

By KENT HUNTER
Boston American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—Despite protests of veterans' organizations, the three-room offices in the old War, State and Navy Building, given to Gen. Pershing in 1924 by the then War Sec. John W. Weeks "for life," were to be officially taken from him today.

The General's personal library, military aide and secretary to furniture and war documents will be moved to a much smaller suite in the Pentagon, where the Dept. of the Army, the Dept. of the Navy are being brought together.

Gen. Pershing does not know of the change. He is a patient at Walter Reed Hospital and for three years has not been inside the offices.

But Col. George E. Adamson, military aide and secretary to General Pershing, has accepted the order to move, and the 16 filing cases, 20 bookcases and several busts of Gen. Pershing, made when Gen. George Catlett Marshall, now Secretary of State, was his aide, will go to the Pentagon storage rooms.

The Pershing cherry wood desk, five by 10 feet, and the cracked leather couches where Pershing's staff formerly sat at conferences, will also go to the storage rooms.

Into the new offices, however, will go the faded battle flags, the four-star plaque that was in his office at Chaumont, France, and the portraits of the four other men in American history who had carried the title of General of the Armies before Pershing. The portraits are of George Washington, Ulysses S. Grant, Philip H. Sheridan and William T. Sherman.

National Com. James F. O'Neil of the American Legion protested to White House Sec. Charles Ross and to President Truman about the move.

James M. Callahan, national commander of the Army and Navy Union, also protested.

Albert Lubin, speaking for Charles Luckman's citizens' food committee, which will take over the suite, protested that the ousting of Gen. Pershing was not "instigated by or sought by the committee," he said:

"We asked for one of the Pershing offices for a conference, and Col. Adamson, Gen. Pershing's aide, gave permission.

"We do not feel that the committee should be blamed because, I am told, the determination to move Gen. Pershing's offices was made several weeks before the committee even came to Washington."

HUB COPS IN OVERCOATS

Overcoats were seen on many Boston policemen today following Acting Supt., James F. Daley's granting of permission because of the sudden drop in temperature.

Self-Destruction To Be Discussed

There's a secret force working in the minds of many men—without their knowledge—toward self-destruction. It is a hidden force which brings many misfortunes to an individual—from a sprained ankle to sudden death.

This is the claim of psychiatrists who state that a great deal of so-called "recklessness" and "proneness to injury" stems from a subconscious desire for self-punishment.

G. B. Lal, science editor, will discuss these findings in an absorbing article, "Causing Our Own Accidents," in Sunday's American Weekly, magazine issued with the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Nevada Senator Raps Europe Aid

ATHENS, Nov. 14 (AP)—Sen. George W. Malone (R.) Nevada said today "we are getting close to the end of our rope in feeding the world."

Speaking of the British loan, and indicating strong opposition to the Marshall Plan, Malone said the British held the $3,750,000,000 was not enough because of inflationary prices in the United States. He declared the Marshall Plan would be absorbed in inflation "just like the British loan." He said the United States was paying twice for loans, first in high taxes and then in inflation, and added:

"I can get as much food here as I can in New York. There is plenty here, if you have the money to buy it. There must be something radically wrong with distribution of these goods. This is food we sent over here to be given away, but now I find it in the black market. These goods return two and three profits before they are sold to the consumer."

Retail Food Hits All-Time High

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (AP)—Retail food prices in September hit a record high, sending the cost of living up another 2 per cent for moderate-income families, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

Preliminary estimates placed the consumers' price index at a peak of about 164 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

The September index is 12 per cent higher than a year ago, 23 per cent above June, 1946, when most OPA controls weree abandoned and 66 per cent over the August, 1939, level.

The food index for September was 203.5 per cent of the 1925-39 average. This was 40 per cent higher than June, 1946, and 10 per cent above June, 1920, the post war peak of World War I.

French Town of Avranches Plans Monument to Patton

PARIS, Nov. 14 (INS) — The municipal council of Avranches was disclosed today to be planning a monument in memory of Gen. George S. Patton, Jr.

Avranches served as the "hinge" for the breakthrough in Normandy by the Third Army which was commanded by Gen. Patton.

(Editor's note: An International News Service staff member recalls that it was at Avranches, also, that Gen. Patton gave one of his lesser-known exhibitions of personal courage.

(Patton had established his Third Army headquarters in trailers near what was then the front, and this headquarters camp and entire Third Army installation was subjected to a particularly heavy Nazi air raid one night.

(While most of his staff officers and certainly every GI who could duck either hit the ground or scurried to cover from heavy bomb bursts and strafing German fighters, Gen. Patton strolled calmly through the area under attack.

(One GI, in his rush to find a good foxhole, ran full tilt into the strolling general, and both went sprawling. Gen. Patton picked himself up, dusted his ever-correct and shining uniform and fixed the scared soldier with a direct stare.

("I suggest son," he remarked, "that we don't crowd. It ain't healthy right now."

Hugo Eckener Leaves For Reich Amid Secrecy

WESTOVER FIELD, Nov. 14 — Following a visit to this country on a top secret mission, Dr. Hugo Eckener, German scientist and originator of propelled lighter-than-air craft, was en route to Frankfurt, Germany, today on a plane which took off from this field.

He was accompanied to the field for the takeoff by a U. S. naval attache and an Army major, and was not permitted to talk with reporters. He came to this country five months ago and was taken to Dayton, O.

A New Path of Communication Between Boston and New York

For telephone and teletype messages . . . for television and radio . . . for transmitting pictures

Developed and built by the Bell System, the new radio relay link between Boston and New York is now licensed for experimental use.

This new path for long distance communication uses very short waves, called microwaves, beamed over seven hilltop towers, erected at intervals of about 30 miles, shown on the map above.

Microwaves are free from static and most man-made interference. But, unless they are controlled, they shoot off into space instead of hugging the earth's curve. To guide them to their destination, each tower has metal lenses that gather the microwaves into a beam and relay them to the next tower. They focus and direct the radio waves like a beam from a searchlight.

The new radio relay link provides extra circuits for long distance calls, for radio and television, for teletype messages and picture transmission. It is another example of the Bell System's never-ending effort to provide better, faster telephone service for everyone.

Congress Group Asked to Speed Housing

The State Department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars today urged a joint congressional committee on housing to "fight for legislation to provide a large scale building program in this country."

The VFW presented a statement to the committee at a hearing in the federal building which asserted that "private enterprise cannot provide the homes at a reasonable rental and still realize a profit." The statement added:

"We are worse off than war-scarred England and the Scandinavian countries. We are turning man against man in this country with our vicious circle of evictions. It is a dog eat dog era and unfortunately the veteran is in the middle."

DIVORCE RATE UP

Chairman Lewis H. Weinstein of the State Board of Housing told the committee the housing shortage had increased the divorce rate, caused "frustration of young couples who want children but have no place to bring them up," and caused a "complete breakdown in our family life."

Weinstein added Massachusetts would need 350,000 new residential units during the next 10 years and that 200,000 are urgently needed at once.

A. S. Bigelow, chairman of the State Emergency Housing Commission, informed the Congressional group Massachusetts now has 100,000 veterans living in "indecent, unsatisfactory housing and almost 100,000 families, both veterans and non-veterans, doubled up."

He added.

"We need a flood of new housing, but new housing costs just about double the average ability to pay. The effects of our housing shortage and high building costs is a threat to our democatic way of life. I am sure that you know its effect in physical suffering and mental anguish and that you also realize its effect in disturbing social, economic and political undercurrent in the stream of our way of life.

"It is significant that today only a few can afford decent housing. They are the few at the top of our economic pyramid. As we go down each income level, the housing shortage progressively affects more and more people with increased severity."

Both Bigelow and Weinstein urged passage of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill and the continuation of rent control.

Leaders from all walks of life crowded today's session of the two-day congressional hearing here. Among those who appeared before the group headed by Cong. Ralph Gamble of New York were the mayors of Revere, Woburn, Lawrence, Lynn, Attleboro, Gloucester, Worcester, Chicopee, Beverly, Springfield and Taunton; the Rev. James H. Doyle of the Boston Catholic Charitable Bureau, representing Archbishop Cushing.

Rabbi Herman H. Rabinovitz, Lucius T. Hall of the John Hancock Life Insurance Co., Alan Morse, president of the U. S. Trust Co., Crawford H. Stoker, representing the Massachusetts Ass'n of Savings Banks, W. C. Loring executive director of the Boston Housing Ass'n, Roy M. Cushman executive director of the Greater Boston Community Council, City Manager John B. Atkinson of Cambridge, and David Lasker, chairman of the Massachusetts Allied Veterans' Council.

The government backs your savings bank, but you MUST back YOUR blood bank. Give blood regularly to the Boston City Hospital.

SUPER SAFE

DES MOINES, Nov. 14 (AP) —A "burglar-proof" safe, which never has been used by its owner, yielded up the first valuable paper entrusted to its care —the combination of the safe.

Charles G. Finn, theater manager at Charles City, Ia., ordered the safe from a Burlington, Ia., firm.

Finn sent it on to E. O. Strauss, a locksmith in Des Moines, and after about an hour of work, Strauss opened the safe with special tools.

He planned today to return the safe and the combination—separately.

Daintiness Always Assured

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

MANY UNDERARM DEODORANTS protect you on Monday and skip you on Friday. They don't stay true to you during your most active hours. How would you like to feel . . . all day long . . . as though you had just taken a bath? How would you like to KNOW you are as dainty as when your pink toes tripped out of your shower stall?

Remember, dear girl, men can tell! You'll get away with lots of things on them. You may slide over the little white lies . . . you can deceive them with a baby stare, perhaps . . . but a man's nose knows. You have to BE dainty to seem that way. Personal daintiness is one thing we can't camouflage . . . so a good, purposeful deodorant should be our first item of personal care.

Underarm offensiveness is NOT caused by fresh perspiration . . . so don't all ye active lassies give up honest toil and energetic play in the cause of dainty living. Underarm odor is caused by fermentation of perspiration after it has been exposed to the air.

There is a lotion deodorant which contains an antiseptic that helps prevent fermentation or bacterial growth. It does two very important things . . . it inhibits perspiration for a reasonable length of time . . . and it also helps prevent any odor after perspiration may begin. And it may be applied daily without any ill effects . . . because it contains a new astringent that causes no irritation to the skin.

WILL NOT HARM GARMENTS

Its texture is like the cream of a crushed smile. When applied . . . it covers the skin invisibly . . . but it is so protecting to the skin, so kitten-smooth and soft to the touch . . . it will really feel like part of you. You use a little bit . . . but don't defeat yourself by using a microscopic amount. Use a sufficient quantity to cover the entire area where deodorant protection is required.

This lotion deodorant smells like a flower garden . . . but the fragrance disappears when it dries as it touches your skin. Its misty scent will never compete with the perfume you are wearing. Use it with complete freedom . . . and know that your garments . . . however fragile the fabric . . . will not suffer or be damaged.

If you desire protection . . . and what fastidious gal doesn't . . . you'll want to be as sweet as a baby's breath. Even the blush-pink liquid of this lotion deodorant is in keeping with the decreed soft and feminine new look . . . tangible evidence of daintiness.

For the name of this fragrant and astringent lotion deodorant, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, any day except Sunday, or write to me, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"LOVELY to look at, delightful to see" . . . that's the musical keynote of the new look . . . the look every woman is translating for herself according to her own specifications. But it is underwritten, beauty-wise, with a personal daintiness that's not undermined by any fastidious and good-grooming oversight. To be nice to be near . . . a girl must be as sweet as a baby's breath.

Braised Lamb Shanks With Noodles for 'Peace Plate'

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

TODAY'S "PEACE PLATE," suggested by the Consumer Service Section, Citizens Food Committee, is braised lamb shanks and noodles, a thrifty course-in-one dish that jollies up one of the less-tender cuts of meat. A serving of Brussels sprouts and crisp raw carrot and raisin slaw will fill a daily "must" of something green, something yellow, in the vegetable way.

Top this with a one-crust apple-crumble pie, and you've managed to strike the heart of the food conservation problem, which is to save wheat and thwart famine.

BRAISED LAMB SHANKS AND NOODLES

3 lamb shanks — 3 tsp. salt
¼ cup flour — ⅛ tsp. pepper
1 cup sliced onions
1 small green pepper, seeded and sliced — 2 tbsp. fat
1½ qts. boiling water
½ lb. wide noodles

Have your butcher cut each shank into three pieces. Combine flour with one tsp. salt and ⅛ tsp. pepper. Roll meat in this mixture, and brown thoroughly on all sides in the hot fat. Then add onions and green pepper, and brown slightly. Add boiling water, remaining two tsp. salt and ⅛ tsp. pepper; cover and simmer for one hour. Then skim off excess fat; add noodles, cover, and continue cooking about 20 minutes or until noodles are tender. Serve shanks in center of platter with noodles and gravy around them. Makes five to six servings

CARROT AND RAISIN SLAW

½ cup seedless raisins
2 cups finely shredded cabbage
2 cups shredded carrots
1 tbsp. vinegar
Salt to taste — Mayonnaise
Lettuce for garnish

Rinse raisins in hot water, drain and cool. Combine with cabbage, carrots, vinegar, salt, and sufficient mayonnaise to moisten and blend. Serve on lettuce-garnished salad plates. Makes four to six servings

APPLE CRUMBLE PIE

6 large tart apples, pared and thinly sliced
1 unbaked pie shell
⅔ cup sugar — ½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. lemon juice
⅓ cup brown sugar
⅓ cup sifted flour
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
½ cup nuts, cut

Arrange sliced apples in pie shell and cover with mixture of sugar, salt, spices and lemon juice. Mix brown sugar and flour. Cut in butter fine. Add nuts. Sprinkle over apples. Bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) 1 hour.

Dinner Gem

SATIN, one of the season's favored fabrics, takes eloquent turns at the nimble hands of Adele Simpson. For a long-sleeved dinner dress of Catoir's polished black slipper satin made of Du Pont rayon yarn . . . this designer devises a cowl that can be deftly manipulated to frame the face . . . or arranged along off-shoulder lines. The peg-top skirt and the ingeniously executed hemline carry the eye downward to wonderful ankle-tie satin dancing slippers.—R. M.

Where to Place Salad Fork

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: When the salad is served at the beginning of a meal, either at luncheon or dinner, where should the salad fork be placed? D. L.

Since the silver pieces should be placed in the order in which they are to be used, and forks should be placed at the left of the plate, the salad fork for the salad served as a first course should be the outside silverpiece at the left of the plate.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When using a tea bag in making a cup of tea, where should I put the tea bag after I have finished with it? DORIS E.

When your tea has reached the proper strength, remove the tea bag carefully and place it on your saucer . . . on the side of the saucer nearest to you.

Mountain Out of Molehill

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I have been going with a boy for seven months and he recently enlisted in the Army. On his first leave he came up to my house every day, but, five days before he had to go away again, he took my girl friend to the movies. I felt pretty badly, as he and I had been going steady.

When I mentioned it to him, he told me I had no reason to be jealous as it was me he loved, and that it wouldn't happen again and asked me to forgive him. I told him I would.

Now he is gone and I am wondering if I did the right thing. I have received affectionate letters from him but don't know whether to answer them or not. "ANXIOUS."

DEAR "ANXIOUS":

Don't you think you are making a large mountain out of a little molehill? It seems foolish to me for young people to try to tie each other down so securely that they are unwilling for each other to have occasional good times with other girls and boys.

If you don't know yet, you would be wise to learn as soon as possible that one of the best ways to hold a man is to let him feel that he is free to go if he wishes to do so. The more possessive women are toward men, the more likely they are to lose them. You will make a great mistake if you continue to brood over this trifling incident and if you break off with your friend because of it, you are likely to be the only one who will be really hurt.

Every Woman Should Own Velvet Gown

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

Every woman should own a velvet gown at least once in her life, for velvet is the royal fabric, the fabric of traditional beauty, the portrait-maker. Velvet is not one of the seasonal fabrics, in fashion one winter and shelved the next. Its beauty is so enduring that when it is made into a gown it is fashioned with the utmost simplicity. The collections never overflow with velvet; rather the designers content themselves with putting their best artistry into one or two superlative velvet gowns. This season, the few fine velvet gowns are distinguished by something new in the way of decoration, self trim of leaves or flowers, motifs whose fine tucking and adroit placement stress the richness of velvet.

Sophie designed the gown sketched today. It is of velvet in a deep red, the color of rubies. The full skirt is lined with horse hair at the hem. The bodice is shoulderless, the neckline bordered with tucked velvet leaves that come to a point at the front.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Friday, Nov. 14, 1947

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You are apt to be one of those people who are happiest when they are with members of their own families and old friends. If that is so, try to make a few new acquaintances because it is very likely that you need mental stimulation which you will get from different faces and opinions.

Lucky number: 21.
Lucky color: ORANGE.
Lucky flower: TEA ROSE.

Don't Hold Back 'Thank You'

Don't ever hold back on saying or writing "thank you" . . . they are good words, and should be spent generously, lavishly indeed, not as a hesitant perhaps-I-should, but because you just can't help saying you appreciate any kindness or courtesy, no matter how small, that is done for you or said to you.

—MRS. BEECKMAN.

scholars bringing splendidly printed brochures published by the Russians which describe the glories of Moscow and eulogize Soviet forms, with fine illustrations, while the best the Americans can offer are small leaflets of skeletonized news."

"Why do we not print these papers in the United States and bring them here?" I asked, and the Doctor shrugged, "Because that is contrary to American policy to teach the Germans initiative, so they can solve their problems the democratic way." "Then why don't we import some of our weekly news review magazines," I asked, and the Doctor said, "Oh, that comes under the U. S. Information Control, which is not part of the Commandatura."

So we left the Oberschule for Boys and went across town to the Mitteischule for girls, where it was lunch time and the maedchen were formed in long queues with little pint-sized pans and bowls to receive a litre of hot gruel made of oats and flour which tasted like unsweetened porridge. The girls curtseyed as the woman attendant ladled out the stuff from German army vacuum containers, and scampered off to slurp it up in their classrooms.

"This is often the only hot food they get," said Dr. Winkelmann, adding: "Food, shoes and clothes are our greatest problem in keeping the children in school. A great number are unable to attend at all for that reason."

"Are the teachers allowed a lunch ration, too?" I asked, and Dr. Winkelmann said, "Oh, no! There is a heavy penalty if any teacher takes any of the food. They must use their ration cards. The teachers' wages are about what they were before the war—between 400 and 450 marks a month, which formerly had a buying power of about $100, but now is much less."

I suggested, after the girls had finished their lunch, that we visit an eighth grade class where I might examine them on their knowledge of historic events, just to see how much they might have absorbed without books.

The Doctor said, "We will have to wait for the afternoon shift. These girls are going home and another group is coming in. We do not have the space to teach, so must use the schools in morning and afternoon shifts."

A little later I stood before a class of some 50 girls of a 15-year average age, and asked, "Can anyone tell about the 'Four Freedoms'?" There was a flutter of hands. "The children are very anxious to learn," said the school principal, Frau Charlotte Feuerherdt.

A girl volunteered, "One freedom is equality of races." Another said, "You haven't any bosses." Another, "The people are all the same." So I asked, "What did Otto von Bismarck do for Germany?" A girl answered, "He put a crown on the King's head." There was vague truth in most answers but the facts were garbled. "It is three years now," said Frau Feuerherdt, "since we have had books, so you must make allowances."

So goes the Berlin school system under the four-headed Commandatura with its conflicing political jealousies and contrary ideologies on the method of "educating" German youth.

Back in the office of Mr. John R. Sala, the U. S. director of education in the American sector and former Dean of Christian College at Columbia, Mo., he said:

"It is pretty pitiful. The trouble is the Russians KNOW what they want and are pursuing it diligently. But we don't. It is difficult to tell now what the harvest of German youth will be if we don't adopt a strong policy. We are losing ground rapidly. We are temporizing while Russian realists run rings around us."

Which is what I mean when I say Berlin is "an island where the waves of unreality wash the shores of illusion."

Garfield Loves His Role In 'Gentleman's Agreement'

If you want to know what Hollywoodian John Garfield thinks about the Hollywood Red Probe you'll have to see him in his next picture.

As an actor, Garfield, a Boston visitor in behalf of the Community Trust Fund, "wants to continue making pictures that have good entertainment value and say something genuine about American living . . . and the bigger the achievement the bigger the payoff."

"Body and Soul," Enterprise's hard-hitting, Garfield-starring picture which is scoring knockout runs on Loew's twin screens here and elsewhere throughout the country, is the story of a fighter who finds himself owned, body and soul, by the racket-boys and who finally recovers his integrity on the eve of his final fight.

That picture he is proud of. But he likes even better "Gentlemen's Agreement," Darryl F. Zanuck's production of Laura Hobson's best-seller which has the New York and Variety film reviewers virtually dancing in the streets.

The film, more sharply focused and somewhat condensed, has greater dramatic power and emotional impact, he says.

He believes that you, too, will find "Gentleman's Agreement" to be the most lethal indictment against intolerance screen or stage audiences have ever seen.

He plays Dave, the Jewish boyhood friend of the writer (Gregory Peck) who poses as a Jew to write a magazine series on anti-Semitism, in the forthcoming 20th Century-Fox release. It is a minor role but "audiences care more about the quality of a performance than the quantity of 'sides.'"

After "learning the trade 7½ years," Garfield has quit Warner Brothers to free lance. His setup with the Enterprise outfit, in which he is an investor and star and his friend, Bob Taplinger, is the publicity-advertising vice-president, is one of the happiest results of this break, he confides.

"With them (David Loew and Charles Einfeld are Enterprise partners) 'the play's the thing' and we all work as a team. The producer doesn't bother the writer, director or actor. And the star is not more important than the script. The story is of primary concern. The fact that British films have nudged their way into the world market and are a threat to Hollywood may be traced to the emphasis the English producers place on story material. We can learn from them, and they certainly have lots to learn from Hollywood."

The stumbling-block right now, he told us, is a lack of stories. The reason? Because there has been such a rash of writers of best-selling novels and Broadway stage hits brought to Hollywood. They "haven't learned the craft of writing for the screen."

Because he seeks a fresh point of view and believes that at this time in his career he ought to do challenging things, Garfield has signed up to do a play soon for New York's Experimental Theater. It is "Skipper Next to God," by Jan de Hartog, who authored the Theater Guild's current doubtful Broadway production, "This Time Tomorrow."

Role in Film Took Year Out Of Her Life

The only thing shocking to Jessica Tandy about a certain tabu'd picture that has become the country's biggest cinematic moneymaker is "that it took a year out of my life."

"It was a bore (we agreed)," she was telling us over luncheon the other day at the Ritz-Carlton. "It was really two shows. We were a third through when they threw everything out the the window and began all over again. It wasn't just Peggy Cummins (who, it was decided, looked too young and fresh and un-sexy for the name part) but the script, too, that didn't suit. The entire script was rewritten."

Miss Tandy, who is also young and fresh-appearing although she has been 19 years in the theater, manages to look quite sexy and dissolute in "The Streetcar Named Desire." The new Tennessee Williams play which could remain at the Wilbur Theater weeks after tomorrow night's closing and continue to play to capacity houses.

The London-born actress, who occupies almost two pages in the latest "Who's Who in the Theater," was first seen on Broadway as Nora Fintry in "The White Steed." She was an overnight success.

In 1931, she returned to London, where she had made her stage debut as Sara Manderson in "The Manderson Girls," to play Viola in "Twelfth Night" at the Open Air Theater. A year later, she appeared at the famous Old Vic Theater as Cordelia in "King Lear" and as Miranda in "The Tempest."

Before she came east, she completed work in "Vengeance," the film adapted from Aldous Huxley's short story, "The Giaconda Smile," in which she is co-starred with Charles Boyer and Ann Blyth.

Hume Cronyn, who has been in Boston to enjoy his wife's triumph in the new Williams drama, has just finished doing retakes in "Virtue," in which he and Van Johnson are starred.

The Cronyns, you may recall, played a man and wife in "The Seventh Cross." In "The Green Years" they were cast as a father and daughter. Incidentally, Cronyn, whose Ewan Llewellyn Evans make believing in "The Hucksters" was that dubious film's only saving grace, was originally refused the role because of his small stature.

So was the late George Arliss, who once played Richelieu, a man of short stature, he told the Metro moguls, and "neither Evans nor Richelieu ever dominate anyone by wrestling with them." P. D.

Connee Boswell Headlines Gala RKO Boston Stage Bill

By PEGGY DOYLE

Again . . . and this repetitiousness should please you paying customers even more than it does your show-reporter . . . the RKO Boston bill is bouncing with solid entertainment in both departments, stage and screen.

Connee Boswell, voted the top girl singer on the nation's airwaves; Buck and Bubbles, coast-to-coast toe-and-tonsil favorites; and Bob Hawkins, celebrated for his all-star, one-man shows, share the stage billing.

Miss Boswell dispenses song from a wheelchair with such grace and skill that hers is one of the biggest names in show business. Looking her loveliest in a white, silver-pailletted bouffant gown, she was pushed to the mike on a dolly in the wink of an eye. Her opening number, "Across the Alley from the Alamo," got a big hand. So did the following number, a symposium of "Peg O' My Heart," "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now" and "Near You." With an amusing little introductory, she wound up with the show-stopping "Feudin', Fightin'."

Buck and Bubbles, of course, need no introduction, their rhythmic antics having long ago established their supremacy in the field of entertainment. John Bubbles, a great dancer who was the original Sportin' Life of "Porgy and Bess," does his effortless, wonderful stepping and ribbing to the music of the gill-sized Buck. They are as welcome as a pay-raise, and they walked off to make way for Miss Boswell to rocking applause.

If ever Bing Crosby should break one of his platter-dates with you and you and you, Bob Hawkins is a likely lad to take over. On the RKO Boston stage, he makes like Bing emceeing a host of air-wise celebrities including Fred Allen, Bob Hope, Edward Everett Horton and Archie of Duffy's Tavern in a way to fool the boys themselves.

Captivating puppets, tied to Virginia Austin's skilled fingers, are another act to have you rubbing your amused orbs in amazement. When a puppet gets another puppet to do its bidding it's time Charlie McCarthy started speaking up for Mortimer Snerd.

The Chesterfields, seen here in Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army," opened the show. They are a trio of acrobats that are aces in the air.

And on a par with the slick stage show is the screen fare, "The Wistful Widow of Wagon Gap," teaming Abbott and Costello with Marjorie Main.

MAN OF FAITH is portrayed brilliantly by Henry Fonda in "The Fugitive," impressive John Ford-directed production now showing on the new Astor Theater screen.

Enjoyable Ranch Film Fare

Despite its title and the fact that the villain of the piece is a bear, the new picture on the Paramount and Fenway screens has no Russian angle, nor the vaguest political significance.

"The Red Stallion," latest Eagle-Lion release, is an appealing human interest story about a red-headed boy, a red horse and an almost-human little dog, set against the richly hued autumn background of pretty mountain ranch country. Yes it is in Cine color.

The story is unoriginal but it achieves suspense and has an exciting sequence of a fight between the bear and the horse, Big Red.

This is a yarn for the entire family, with acting honors going to the lad, his little and large pets, and the little animals of the forest. Realistic sets of the mountain ranch country add to the picture's naturalness and eye-appeal.

It is true that some of the sequences involving the boy and his grandmother have been overly sugared. Nature-lovers, youngsters and parents are likely to overlook this fault in favor of the enjoyment offered by this armchair jaunt to the ranch country.

New Musical Here Next Month

George Abbott has booked the Shubert Theater for a Christmas Day opening of "Look, Ma, I'm Dancin'," a musical comedy by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee with music and lyrics by Hugh Martin, Nancy Walker, Harold Lang, Janet Reed and Alice Pearce head the cast. The dancing fraction of the musical went into rehearsal this past week. The principals begin practicing next Thursday.

Seabury-Potter Ceremony

MRS. VIRGINIA SHRIGLEY POTTER of Salem and Mortier A. Seabury Jr., of Weston are being married at a candlelight ceremony in the First Church of Salem this afternoon, followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sanders, close family friends.

The petite blonde bride, daughter of Mrs. Wilfred R. Shrigley, is being given in marriage by her brother, Wilfred Shrigley, Jr. She is wearing a green velvet full length gown with low square neckline and long sleeves. She has a wreath of ivy and bouvardia for a headdress and a bouquet of white orchids and bouvardia.

Mrs. Howard Wheeler, Jr., of Marblehead, sister of the bride, is matron of honor, wearing a gold velveteen ballerina dress and bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums and ivy. Mrs. Shrigley has chosen a gown of grey crepe with violets and Mrs. Mortimer Seabury, mother of the groom, black with orchids.

Mrs. Howard Wheeler, Jr.

George Seabury, brother of the groom, who is in the aviation business abroad, flew back from Europe Tuesday to be best man. Richard Sprague and Howard Wheeler Jr., are the ushers.

Ginny attended school in Geneva and Beaver Country Day. She made her debut in 1938. He bridegroom was in the class of 1936 at Yale and served in the Naval Reserve. This is a second marriage for both. They will return from their wedding trip to attend the Harvard-Yale game and will be at home in Weston after Dec. 6.

MR. AND MRS. CORNELIUS FELTON of New York and Hamilton are giving a dance at the Copley Plaza this evening for their debutante daughter, Janet, who attends Radcliffe. The debutante is receiving in a full skirted gown of pink lace threaded with silver, made with a strapless bodice. Mrs. Felton has chosen a side draped black silk gown and orchid corsage.

DR. AND MRS. SERGE KOUSSEVITSKY, Dr. and Mrs. James B. Conant of Harvard and Mrs. Taylor Crowninshield will be in the distinguished audience at the opening of the Theater Guild's fifth subscription play of the season Monday evening at the Majestic Theater. The attraction will be two musical plays, "The Medium" and "The Telephone" which have been widely acclaimed in New York. Other first nighters will be Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. S. Bruce Black, Mrs. Frank Mansfield Taylor, Mrs. Henry H. Freeman and Mr. and Mrs. Augustine B. Conant Jr.

COLOR PICTURES of movie stars in their own homes and gardens will be shown by Emily Henry Bush at the next of Mrs. William Dana Orcutt's Mornings of Diversion Nov. 19 in New England Mutual Hall. Mrs. Bush made the pictures on a recent visit to Hollywood.

Mrs. Randolph Post Eddy will be in charge of the coffee hour preceding the program, in place of Miss Amy Sacker, who will be out of town lecturing. Assisting her will be junior hostesses, Mrs. Philip Dana Orcutt, Mrs. Percival Gilbert Jr., Rebekah Hobbs, Lavinia Sabine, Louise Condit, Mrs. John W. White, Mrs. Frank Lincoln Howes Jr., and Mrs. Russell Codman.

THE ENGAGEMENT of Mary Elizabeth Lucas to Thomas J. Carens was announced at a dinner party given last night by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Lucas of Wellesley Hills. She is a graduate of Lasell Junior College.

Mr. Carens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Carens, also of Wellesley Hills, served three years in the Army Air Corps and is now in his final year at Harvard Law School. He belongs to Pi Eta, Chancery and the Harvard Club of Boston.

LASELL JUNIOR COLLEGE senior promenade takes place in Winslow Hall on the campus tomorrow evening. Barbara Nielson, senior class president, is chairman.

Bookies Play Safe by Keeping That 1-2 Point

By JACK CONWAY

BOSTON COLLEGE is a 7½-point favorite to win from Tennessee at Knoxville tomorrow. If the young odds-maker in Cincinnati can show any rule that gives a football club half a point for doing anything, this writer would be very happy to read it. Of course there is no such rule. The bookmakers on the 7½-point wagering are persons who try tional half-point edge on those carefree persons who try to pick the results of Saturday's gridiron clashes.

The correct odds should be 7 points. If they were given, however, the bookmakers would lose if BC were to score a touchdown and then make the conversation for the extra point. It usually requires two touchdowns to beat a 7-point handicap. Goals from the field and safeties are not common the way modern football is played.

Boston College is not meeting a great Tennessee team. In fact, Col. Bob Neyland has one of the weakest teams that has ever represented Tennessee. It has played seven games and lost five.

The Tennessee record of defeats shows it was beaten by Mississippii, 43-13; Albama, 10-0; Georgia Tech, 27-0; Duke, 19-7; North Carolina, 20-6.

It won from Chattanooga, 26-7, and upset Tennessee Tech, 49-0. There are several strong New England prep schools which would have a chance of winning from Tennessee Tech.

Boston College will place a powerful team on the field tomorrow despite the fact some of its stars have met with injuries. The football spirit at B. C. is high. Even though beaten by Wake Forest by a disheartening one point margin last Saturday, the Eagles are flying high and will give a fine account of themselves.

Myers Building B. C. for Future Greatness

DENNY MYERS, with a new four year contract at $10,000 a year, is building B. C. for future gridiron greatness. When Myers returned to the Heights from Navy service, he declared it would require five years to give B. C. the type of football team to which it was entitled.

This year's club is an improvement over the 1946 team. The improvement will continue in 1948 and in 1949. By 1950, if the Myers program works out as it should, B. C. will have a team as great as the one Frank Leahy took to the Sugar Bowl to play Tennessee.

That was the B. C. team that would not be beaten. The night before leaving Boston for the Sugar Bowl, Leahy made a trip to Scituate to address a high school football banquet. Ed Stewart's team had come through the season undefeated.

"We may trail going into the final period of the Sugar Bowl game," said Leahy with assurance, "but in the latter stages of the contest you will see a great B. C. team rise to its highest point and smash its way to victory."

The game went much as Leahy predicted it would with B. C. winning in the closing stages of the contest.

Myers Has Developed Offensive Power

MYERS has a developed much offensive power at B. C. This is why the club looked so brilliant in the closing half of the LSU game in which it was beaten by only one point.

With Harvard experiencing football difficulties, B. U. still several years away in the development of its football program and the other local colleges having their troubles on the gridiron, the Boston and New England public looks to B. C. for victories. This writer feels it will not disappoint in its clash at Knoxville. Our Magic Coin picks Myers' men to win.

Brown Touchdown Favorite

A stumbling Harvard football team faces its acid test on the road to recovery when it tangles with a favored Brown eleven tomorrow in the Stadium. The rejuvenated visitors, fresh from successive victories over Holy Cross and Yale, are out to humble the Crimson for last year's decisive 28-0 licking.

The Bruins are a one-touchdown favorite in some quarters and elsewhere dopesters rate them as high as three touchdowns better than the Harlowmen. It's a much-improved Brown team that lines up in the huge arena, one that has its work cut out.

Not since 1938 have the Bears been able to eke out a victory over the Harvards. Dick Harlow has, in turn, run up what is perhaps his best record against the Rhode Island school with eight triumphs and only one defeat.

So, for the most part, the Bruins figure to "be up" for the game both physically and psychologically. Despite the challenge the Crimson should not be considered out of the ball game.

Climaxing a week of long practice sessions, the Cantabs are in even better physical shape than last Saturday. Jim Kenary, a bit shaky against the Tigers after being sidelined for over a month, scrimmaged this week and is in top condition. Injured Don Stone, out since the Dartmouth tilt three weeks ago, will be back to bolster the line.

Howard Houston and John Gorczynski, both handicapped by minor hurts last weekend, also have had four days of strenuous practice workouts under their belts. Starting center Chuck Glynn has had the cast removed from his arm since his hand was broken.

But more than physical improvement, the squad has been running through its drills with a long-absent zeal. They realize that Brown is their last chance to get back on their early season victory path, before the Yale bulldog looms into view.

Virginia injured this football team, Rutgers and Princeton added insult to this injury. If ever the time was ripe for retribution, it is tomorrow against the Bruins.

DOUBLE FRACTURE—Dr. Vincent Nardiello, Rangers team physician, examines goalie Chuck Rayner's cheek after latter had been hit by shot from Bruins Jack Crawford. "Double fracture," the doc announced. Rayner will be sidelined three weeks.

Tough Stretch for Bruins; Play 5 Games in 8 Days

The Bruins, back in a first place tie with the Detroit Red Wings, held a practice session at the Arena today and then packed for Montreal.

Tomorrow night the Bruins play Les Canadiens at the Forum, the first of five games scheduled in eight days against the strongest teams in the league.

Away to one of their best starts in years, the B's have dropped only two games in their first nine starts. Their latest success was an 8-2 win over the Rangers. The Canadiens tonight and Red Wings tomorrow night will be a real test for the Bruins. Toronto comes to the Garden Wednesday. The Bruins play in Toronto next Saturday night, and then rush back to Boston for a Sunday game with Montreal.

Detroit's appearance here Sunday night will mark the first time the Bruins have played on their home ice in three weeks. The game will introduce an old Boston favorite, Bep Guidolin, in a Red Wings' uniform. Guidolin was traded to the Wings for Billy Taylor before the season opened, and has banged home three goals and assisted in two others. He has spent 16 minutes in the penalty box so far.

The Wings also bring to Boston a colorful young defense man in 20-year-old Leonard "Red" Kelly, a former team mate of Ed Sandford and Ed Harrison at St. Michaels College.

Pics Return to Hub For Single Game

After being away from the Garden since Oct. 25th, the Olympics move back to the North Station rink tomorow night to tangle with the New York Rovers.

Immediately after the battle, both clubs leave for New York where they meet again on Sunday afternoon.

Hago Harrington, Pics' coach, said he would use Arnie Kullman as the play-maker on his front line with Steve Gaber and Sambo Bettio as his wingmen. The Brennan-Fillion-Dumond combine will work as the second line. Jack Meldrum will center the third wave with Ray Manson and Ron Telford on the lanes.

BUDDY ENSOR DEAD

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (INS)—Lavelle (Buddy) Ensor, 47, one of the turf's greatest jockeys, lies dead today in a New York general morgue.

He was found on a park bench, only a few miles from the race tracks on which he rode to fame and fortune. He died in a patrol wagon en route to a hospital.

He was unidentified for 14 hours before a relative finally told who he was.

Ensor and Earl Sande staged some of the greatest duels of the turf a generation ago. Ensor won $760,000 in purses in 1921. His widow and daughter survive.

DONELLI TO PICK KEY SPOTS FOR MANCINO

Although he will not be in the starting lineup when the Terriers tangle with King's Point, Gene Mancino, recently converted left halfback, is slated for plenty of action when the two teams lock horns at Fenway Park tomorrow. Coach Buff Donelli is expected to use him in key stops throughout the game.

Classified as a freshman, having entered school last February, the West New York, N. J., lad beat out all rivals for the starting fullback assignment in the opener. He justified Donelli's faith in him by doing a bangup job in his first three games.

However, the injury jinx caught up with him in the Purdue tussle, and sidelined him for two weeks. The two-game layoff had its effect on young Gene. Since his return, his play has not been up to his early season form.

Donelli toyed with the idea of shifting him to some other position. After watching freshman fullback Charlie Kent against Dartmouth, he decided that Gene would be of much more value to the '48 squad at left half.

Always a good student of the game, Mancino has taken well to his new job, and he is learning much from Capt. Don Giles about the position.

Coach Donelli has not yet stated whether he would start Don Giles or Pete Sarno at left half, but it is believed that Giles will get the call after his showing at Nickerson Field this week. The quarterback slot is also undecided, but if Giles starts it will probably be Toner.

Pick Heavy Eagle Squad To Whip Tennessee

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 14—Student enthusiasm at the University of Tennessee has reached a fever pitch with the election of a campus queen and the impending intersection debacle with Boston College at Shields-Watkins Field tomorrow.

Interest in the balloting and approaching game is evenly divided. Blond Sugar Smith and her brunette campaign rival Dolores Clarke were the most widely discussed individuals in Knoxville but the Vols and Eagles came in for their share of ballyhoo.

Tennessee students will highlight the pre-game calendar with a monster rally at Rose Hole tonight. Miss Tennessee will be introduced and then the football game will dominate the scene.

Gen. Bob Neyland ran the Vols through a light workout yesterday. Fearful of more injuries from contact drills, the Vols coach, in the midst of his worst season in 16 years at Tennessee, appears to have only a slight chance to beat B.C.

While Knoxville sportswriters favor the Eagles, Allen Compton INS sports columnist in his Southern Roundup picks the Vols, 19-9. Some diehard Tennesseeans are figuring that perhaps the Vols have a jinx on the Eagles and can promote an upset.

Tennessee will be outweighed in the line by the Eagles. Vol starters are Al Russas (190), of Providence, R. I. and Bub Sherrod (185), ends; Co- Capt. Denvir Crawford (198) and Charlie Wielman (200), Bridgeport, Ct., tackles; Co-Capt. Ray Drost (185) and Sharkey Price (185), guards, and Ralph Huneycutt (190), center. The Tennessee backfield still using Gen Neylands single-wing will have Jack Armstrong (170) at quarterback, Bob Lund (180) wingback, Ralph Chancey (185) fullback, and How Littleford (165) tailback.

The Vols will hold a light drill this afternoon while the Eagles are limbering up after the long train ride in the Stadium.

Fifty Turkeys as Prizes At Annual Sharon Shoot

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Possessing the finest small-bore range in New England, the Sharon Fish and Game Club will hold its 16th annual turkey shoot on the Sabbath, from 9 a. m. until dark. Fifty turkeys will be awarded as prizes and the range is located just off Route 27, from Sharon sq.

Four classes on the card for marksmen include prone rifle, 22 caliber, slow fire at 50 yards; offhand rifle, for the same caliber and distance; any handgun, 50 yards, slow fire; and any handgun, 25 yards, slow fire. The entry fee of one dollar in each match provides four targets.

Visiting the Sharon Club in the past, we discovered that the organization has a delightful clubhouse, mirrored by an inviting pond, which is well stocked with all the fresh water species of fish. Outdoor fireplaces and picnic tables offer inducement to anglers, who bring their families to the rendezvous.

cent years. Conservation is the keynote of this group of sportsmen.

OUTDOOR O. O.'s: Director Ralph Carpenter of the New Hampshire fish and game division has approved the opening of the 4000-acre Bear Brook game refuge, at Allenstown, for bow and arrow hunting solely, during the deer season of Dec. 1-21. This should be interesting news to the many archers in this section, many of whom declare that their weapons are the most sporting type to employ for hunting.

Regulations on the above state that the bow must have a minimum pull of 40 pounds, while the arrow must have a broad head of seven-eighths inches to one and one-half inches, and the archer's name must be inscribed plainly on the arrow . . . Firearms will not be permitted in the Bear Brook refuge at any time . .

115 Starters Toe Mark In Schoolboy X-Run

Five states will be sending 115 representatives—including 24 from the Bay State—to Franklin Park tomorrow morning for the annual New England Interscholastic Cross Country championship—a 2½-mile grind scheduled to get underway at 11:30.

Mass. will be represented by teams from Watertown and Melrose high schools (1-2 in the State meet) with 10 individuals completing the entry list.

Individuals from the State competition of last week will include John Bennett, Fitchburg; Bob Cannon, Woburn; Dick Fowle, Woburn; John Wathen, Watertown; Harry Aldridge, Worcester Classical; A. Carlsen, Braintree; R. Dolron, Gardner, Jim Gallagher, Fitchburg; Jack Normile, Belmont, and Robert Fowle, Woburn. Wathen will head the Watertown team; Dave Bracket the Melrose club.

Teams from other states will be: Dover and Epping high schools of New Hampshire; Old Town and Brunswick from Maine; La Salle Academy and Mt. Pleasant from Rhode Island, and Hartford Public and Greenwich from Ct.

DARTMOUTH SET TO CHECK CORNELL'S PETE DORSET

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 14 (AP)—If hard work means anything, the Dartmouth Indians are all set to check Cornell's Pete Dorset, who clicked off 10 consecutive forward passes for three touchdowns against Princeton.

Coach "Tuss" McLaughry has been tightening up the Indians' aerial defenses all week.

Unbeaten Teams Face Tests by Army, Navy

By BILL GRIMES

For the second time in as many weeks, the Army and Navy meet undefeated and untied opponents tomorrow.

The West Pointers play Penn at Franklin Field while the Middies journey to Baltimore to take on Penn State. A week ago, the Cadets were handed a 27 to 7 defeat by Notre Dame and Navy did enough fumbling to allow Georgia Tech to come from behind and take a 16 to 14 decision.

The experts figure Penn to remain in the undefeated class but hesitate to go all out for the Nittany Lions, despite the fact that Coach Bob Higgins has one of the country's powerhouses under his wing.

A Rose Bowl bid may hinge on the outcome of the Michigan-Wisconsin game, which will be played at Madison. The Wolverines have stepped through Northwestern, Minnesota, Illinois and Indiana for a perfect record in the "Big Nine," while the Badgers have beaten Purdue, Northwestern and Iowa, although they were tied by Indiana.

Frank Leahy's Irish of Notre Dame shouldn't have too much difficulty with Northwestern, for he's too smart a mentor to allow his boys to bog down at this stage of the campaign.

The Harvard-Brown and the B. U.-King's Point tilts are the only attractions in this immediate neighborhood. Dick Harlow is trying to gather the remnants of his Harvard machine, which gave promise, at the start of the season of developing into a winner. After it had been soundly thrashed by Virginia, the Crimson's injury list mounted weekly with the result that Harvard has received three straight setbacks, Dartmouth, Rutgers and Princeton. And, it's a fairly well established fact that the Crimson will be trailing Brown at the final whistle tomorrow afternoon in the Stadium.

Hundreds of Dartmouth and Cornell alumni will be on Pres. Ned French's Special to Hanover tomorrow morning. The Indians have broken even in seven tough games, while Cornell needs a win to reach the .500 mark.

The B. U. Terriers haven't been under fire for two weeks. They have, however, been practicing daily and "Buff" Donelli will have all members of his first varsity ready for the King's Point Mariners, whom they hope to sink at Fenway Park.

The Holy Cross Crusaders, who have blown hot and cold, mostly the latter, all fall, are on their way to New York for a set-to with Lou Little's snarling Columbia Lions. Naturally Columbia, conquerors of Army, Navy, Cornell and Dartmouth rate as favorites over "Ox" DaGrosa's boys.

With all due respect to the other New England college contests the best attraction is the Wesleyan-Trinity clash down at Hartford, Ct. The Cardinals and the Hilltoppers have each moved through six games without a reverse or even a draw.

The University of New Hampshire, the only other undefeated and untied New England eleven, will go to Storrs, Ct., playing the Uconns.

The Pine Tree State championship could wind up in a three cornered tie but we are picking Maine to take the title by defeating Bates at Lewiston and we also favor Walt Holmer's Colby Mules to bring down the Bowdoin Polar Bears.

The fur will fly when the Vermont and Middlebury clash tomorrow at Middlebury, with the Vermont State title at stake, and the same holds true for the Williams-Amherst game at Williamstown, where the Ephman will make their seventh and final bid to break into the games won column.

The Boston College Eagles should square the Tennessee series tomorrow at Knoxville. A year ago, the Vols tied Georgia for the Southwestern Conference championship but this fall they haven't won a major game. So as far as General Bob Neyland is concerned Boston College will not be recipients of any of that famous Southern hospitality.

Last fall, Princeton folded completely after the 13 to 12 defeat by Harvard. The Tigers dropped a 20 to 3 decision to Yale and then were beaten by Dartmouth, whose only claims to fame up to that game were wins over Holy Cross and Syracuse.

If Coach Charlie Caldwell's Tigers are clicking as smoothly and as effectively as they did against the Crimson last week, Princeton has better than an even chance of handing the Elis their third defeat of the fall. The absence of Fred Nadherny will weaken Yale's offense and Coach Howie Odell has been jockeying his backfield combinations all week, looking for a suitable replacement.

The Tufts Jumbos will call it a season after meeting U. of Massachusetts tomorrow at Amherst. Although beaten by Bates, Rochester and New Hampshire, Tufts has had a good year, which they would like to climax with a victory over the Statesmen.

SECRET DRILL

AMHERST, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Amherst football squad will hold another practice session behind locked gates today when they wind up preparations for the final game with Williams. Coach Lloyd Jordan decided to make the workout a secret affair yesterday when he put the Lord Jeffs through a gruelling session.

END DON CURRIVAN

Yanks at Peak For Eagles

Fully recovered from the injury jinx that put a hex on the Boston Yanks, Eastern Division championship hopes, the Hub outfit is now rolling on high. Mathematically, the Yanks are still in the title running despite four defeats. But to remain up there, they must down the Eagles at Philadelphia Sunday.

Fresh from their upset triumph over the Los Angeles Rams, the Yanks feel that they can turn the trick.

Don Currivan, after a slow start, is now the "hottest" end in the league. He caught two touchdown passes and took a lateral for a third T. D. last Sunday to bring his season's total to seven. These seven touchdowns tie him with Ken Kavanaugh of the Bears for most touchdowns scored along the ends and it makes Don the second leading scorer in the East

Wesleyan Hails Coach as 'Best'

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., Nov. 14 (AP)—Around Wesleyan, they proudly proclaim that in Norm Daniels they've got the only unde feated head football coach in the country. What they mean is that Daniels, who became football boss here in 1945, has coached the Cardinals to 13 straight victories over that period, including two "Little Three" championships. And they're not counting three triumphs and a tie recorded during his first season when Wesleyan played an informal schedule.

Actually, Wesleyan now has won 14 in a row, but that includes a victory in 1942's finale when Wes Fesler, now at Ohio State, was in charge. The Cardinals dropped football during the war.

The 1946 campaign, in which Wesleyan won all seven, was the University's first perfect football season in 77 years.

Now, with six victories already behind them this season, Daniels and his lads face their final 1947 obstacle, and its a big one, in unbeaten and untied Trinity College. They will clash at Hartford tomorrow in a battle that has stirred up top interest in Connecticut.

Teamwork between coaches and players is the answer to Daniels' success, according to those close to the Wesleyan football scene.

When Danny and his staff took over here, there was a feeling around the campus that they fall would be too easy with the squad but he has since proved that his attitude backed with real ability and organization is an unbeatable formula.

A neutral observer quickly senses the warm regard and mutual attachment between Daniels and his boys. The deep sincerity of these player-coach relations has been highly visible on several occasions when the affable Daniels was carried off the field on the shoulders of his huskies.

Old grads say it would require much digging in the records to find a precedent for this in Wesleyan annals.

While at Michigan, from which he was graduated in 1932, Daniels played end and halfback in football, second base in baseball and was center and captain of his basketball team.

Everything being equal, he'll have a veteran eleven again next

Leahy Picks B. C., Yale, Brown, Army to Win

By FRANK LEAHY
Head Coach, Notre Dame University

With the weather due to become increasingly rough and unpredictable, it offers us a reasonably good excuse for foregoing further attempts to pick approximate scores. Anyway, this week we shall try and put our finger on the winners without naming scores.

ARMY . . . PENNSYLVANIA—Yes, we know that Penn has the swift backs to run Army's end, the one vulnerable spot in the Cadet line. But we still think Army will take the Red and Blue and make it a sad day Saturday for Philadelphia.

ALABAMA . . . GEORGIA TECH—The Engineers are undefeated. Alabama is coming on with a rush. We think the Tide will spoil Tech's perfect record after one of those rousing battles so typical of Southern football.

COLUMBIA . . . HOLY CROSS—Lou Little's boys are smart and tough. They should conquer the Crusaders.

BOSTON COLLEGE . . . TENNESSEE—This is not a representative Bob Neyland team from Tennessee and the Eagles should have it their own way.

SOUTHERN METHODIST . . . ARKANSAS—The Mustangs have a Bowl glint in their eye. We believe it will be even brighter after they tackle the Razorbacks.

TEXAS . . . TEXAS CHRISTIAN—The Longhorns are still smarting from that one-point loss to S. M. U. and should be too strong for the Horned Toads.

MICHIGAN . . . WISCONSIN—The Badgers are becoming increasingly hard to handle. But not hard enough, in our opinion, to halt the Wolverines' march to the Rose Bowl.

UTAH . . . IDAHO—The Redskins have won seven games. They should add to the list against Idaho.

YALE . . . PRINCETON—Anything can happen when these traditional rivals meet and usually does, but we think the Eli will emerge victorious after a very hard struggle.

NAVY . . . PENN STATE—Navy's staunch, fighting line should turn back the Nittany Lions and also spoil another perfect record. Navy, in losing to Georgia Tech, 16-14, last week, continued to show increasing power and drive. This should be the spot for them to go all out.

Other Selections: Brown over Harvard, California over Montana, Colgate over Syracuse, Dartmouth over Cornell, Detroit over St. Louis, Georgia over Auburn, Georgetown over Villanova, Illinois over Ohio State, Indiana over Marquette, Kansas State over Iowa State, Minnesota over Iowa, Missouri over Oklahoma, Michigan State over Temple, North Carolina over Maryland, Purdue over Pittsburgh, Rice over Texas A. & M., Tulane over Florida, UCLA over Washington, Vanderbilt over Miami, Virginia over West Virginia.

As for our game with Northwestern we should go into the game decided favorite. However, you may be sure we are not taking the task lightly. In fact, we have been striving to keep our lads up for this one, which could be a dangerous spot. Any Big Nine team is dangerous

PROMOTED — Bennie Davis, West Point yearling, is surprise starter at left tackle against undefeated Penn. Davis weighs 205, is only 18. His home is in McAlister, Okla. He replaces injured Ray Drury, getting call over more experienced men.

St. Sebastian's at St. John's (D).
St. Clement's at Lawrence Central.
St. Patrick's (S) at St. Charles.
St. Columbille's at St. Patrick's (W).

Neither figures particularly capable of coming through with a victory but both, off their potentialities, could cloud the dreams of the 1-2 leaders in the Class A grind.

Coach Gigi Kenneally's Beach-Combers have never lived up to their pre-season promise. After taking a whipping in their opening game trip to Massillon, Ohio, Revere collapsed so that its gigantic line (headed by 200-pounders Vic Terminello and Justin Capidilupo) became very mobile in the eyes of its grid rivals.

Its backfield trickery (centered around Frank McDonald) never hit its stride after McDonald's injury.

They're hardly an outfit that could set back the mighty North Shore stalwarts, especially with the pitching of Harry Agganis and the footwork of George Bullard to contend with. Still, Classical is very vulnerable, and a team that gets the jump might hold it. Maybe it could be the big game of the season for Revere.

Chelsea, like Revere, looked tremendous in a deadlock against Lynn English in the earliest stages of the season. But since, its veteran operators have failed to live up to that promise. And with such veteran operatives in the backfield as Joe Bevere and Bob Finnegan, the team can be counted upon to be especially troublesome in a lot of spots in this meeting with the Mustangs.

Medford's Tom O'Connor, sitting tightly on the top of the roost, needs to win this one, as well as the Thanksgiving Day game against Malden, to substantiate the Mustang claim to the title. He's perfectly willing to let any post-season arrangements take care of themselves—and if plans should concern Medford, they'll just have to wait until the final whistle of the campaign to be settled.

Coach O'Connor's only problem, as a one-man ways and means committee, will be to find faster and smoother roads to drive Tom Kelley and Gino Paglucia across the Red Devil's goal line. There were too many anxious moments in the Waltham victory (7-0) last week, a last minute triumph that almost came too late.

But while these teams are continuing their red-hot race for the top rung, there'll be an extremely interesting battle at the Lowell stadium where the Riddick revived home team will be playing hostile host to a Quincy eleven, as stubborn a club as can be found. Lowell, on the road back under Coach Riddick, has come up with a dandy back in Walter "Tick" Kulis to pull the trigger against the Granite City crew.

There'll also be dozens of other games that will bear watching. Everett at Malden promises to be a rugged skirmish in spite of the fact that both have fallen far off their unbeaten paths; Norwood always spells trouble for North Quincy; Beverly will be at Melrose.

4 Seniors Start for N. H. Against Connecticut

DURHAM, N. H., Nov. 14 (AP)—New Hampshire's undefeated Wildcats entrained for Storrs, Ct., this morning for their eighth and last game against the University of Connecticut. Coach Biff Glassford rates the Uconns as the toughest his forces have met this season.

SPRINGFIELD COACH BURNS OLD SHOE

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 14 (AP)—After going through the traditional ceremony of "burning the old shoe," Coach Ossie Solem and a 50-man Springfield College football squad entrained for Cortland, N. Y., for its final game with Cortland State Teachers.

The shoe burning, which dates back to Solem's earliest coaching days, is his own invention. He theorizes that as the shoe goes up in smoke, so go all the season's disappointments and ill feelings.

Odell Hex Over 'Big 3'

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 14 (AP)—Princeton will have to cope with something besides football players when it meets Yale in tomorrow's "Big Three" opener.

It's a bluff tradition that Coach Howie Odell has added to the already tuition-heavy Yale-Harvard-Princeton rivalry.

No Eli eleven is lost to either of its "Big Three" foes since Odell became head coach in 1942, and it's that intangible weapon which Yale will use at Princeton besides whatever football skill and power it can draw from a patched up lineup.

Chief threat to Yale's record, aside from Princeton itself, is the doubtful status of five back and principal ground gainer, Fred Nadherny.

"Scoop" of the season

IT WOULD be a lucky cranberry-picker who found that he'd scooped-up a cool, sparkling bottle of Blatz Beer. But we purposely put the bottle there : : : to point out that Blatz, like delicious, bush-ripened cranberries, has been matured and mellowed to the very peak of flavor.

Brewed only in Milwaukee for 96 years, Blatz is Milwaukee's first bottled beer. Try Blatz : : : today! We think you'll agree that it's a flavor "scoop."

YEAR SUSPENSION FOR MAJORS SIGNING SCHOOLBOYS

CINCINNATI, Nov. 14 (AP)—Baseball Commr. A. B. Chandler announced today a one-year suspension from the sport will be imposed on any one who negotiates with a high school player in violation of the rule.

In an announcement sent to all major and minor league clubs, Chandler said:

"Any club official or employe conducting any such negotiations who does not establish that he did not know, and by exercising reasonable care and diligence could not have known, of such interference with such player's eligibility shall be ineligibilized for one year."

Chandler also instructed club officials to re-read the rule, which prohibits negotiations with a boy as long as he is in high school.

He said "attention is again specifically called to the fact that this rule is being interpreted as applying to all high school students in the United States and Canada.

Association to Oppose Coast Big League Bid

COLUMBIA, O., Nov. 14 (AP)—Frank Lane, president of the American Association, predicted today the directors of his league would oppose, at the annual meeting Nov. 30 in Miami, Fla., the Pacific Coast loop's request for dual major-minor status.

The coast circuit, Lane said, is seeking "fast action on its bid for a new classification which would place it between the present Triple-A and the majors.

Lane also blasted at the Coast League's request that it be permitted to retain players for six years, instead of four, before they would become eligible for the draft, but said he had no objection to the loop changing its name.

"I am strongly of the opinion," Lane said, "that our directors will very emphatically oppose the inconsistency of the Coast League's proposal that it be permitted to retain its membership in the National Association (the minors) and yet be subject only to direct jurisdiction of the Commissioner and major league executive council.

"The request by Clarence Rowland (Coast League president) that his league be permitted to retain its players for six years service instead of four before they would be eligible for the draft by the majors, plus increasing their draft price from the current $10,000 to $25,000, is in my opinion detrimental to the best interests of baseball.

"Both of these modifications, if approved, would definitely mitigate against proper advancement of players to the majors, and any legislation which might tend to reduce a players' initiative and ambition, as would be the case in the above instances, is to my way of thinking, a detriment to the game."

BROWN MEN CELEBRATE AS IN '26

This is a quiet "night before" in collegiate football circles. Neither Brown, which plays Harvard tomorrow, nor King's Point, which plays BU at Fenway, put in an appearance today, and thus couldn't have their pictures in the papers. Tufts is playing at University of Mass. (Amherst) tomorrow, and B. C. will be at Tennessee.

Brown's team won't leave Providence until the morning, and King's Point, from Long Island, won't arrive until midnight tonight. This is in striking contrast to Dartmouth, Georgetown, Rutgers, Purdue, Villanova and other teams which played locally this fall and which made the welkin ring the night before.

Only thing doing in town tonight is a Brown football rally at the Lenox. Brown alumni from the Greater Boston area will whoop it up starting at 7:30 p. m.

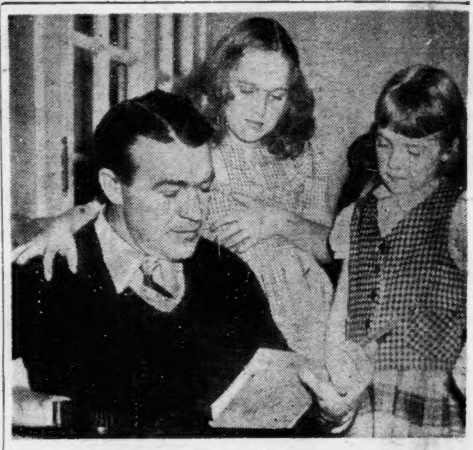
Brown doesn't have many chances to make merry before a Harvard game. They did in the days of Earl Sprackling, Bill Ormsby and Fritz Pollard before the first war, did it again in 1926 when Tuss McLaughry's "Iron Men" romped undefeated, including Harvard among its victims.

Red Randall, Orland Smith, Dave Mishel, Red Broda, Sam Cornsweet, Towle & Co. gave every Brown fan in the nation something to cheer about that year.

It's been different since. Brown hasn't beaten Harvard since 1938, almost a decade. But with victories over Holy Cross and mighty Yale registered in the past two weeks, Brown men visualize a three-touchdown margin over Dick Harlow's crippled legions 24 hours hence," and plan to start celebrating early.

Ironic note in tonight's merry-making at the Lenox is the fact that Bob Margarita will be one of the speakers. Margarita is one of Brown's best-ever backs, but currently is backfield coach under Harlow.

Bump Hadley and Paul Mackeasy will say a word. Hadley was a Brown mound star before his big league days. Mackesey, an "all" tackle is athletic director at Brown.



Domestic—Frank Leahy at home with daughters, Susan, 9, and Floss, 7. ND coach lives at Long Beach, Ind. His time is budgeted closely. His team is No. 1 in the nation and plays Northwestern tomorrow. (International News Soundphoto)

Celtics Open Pro Basket Season

The Boston Celtics, with several new performers, will launch their Basketball Association of America home season against the fabulous Joe Fulks and his championship Philadelphia Warriors tonight at Boston Garden. The West End House and the Winthrop Varsity will meet in a preliminary game at 7:15 o'clock. The pro will top off at 9 o'clock.

The Baltimore Bullets, a new entry in the league this season, spoiled the Celts' season-opener last night in the Maryland city by drubbing them, 85-74.

It was anybody's game going into the final period, then the Bullets put on a burst of speed that left the locals far in the rear.

Veteran Connie Simmons and Ed Sadowski, who was acquired during the off season, paced the Celts in scoring. Each caged 16 points with Cecil Hankins, a former St. Louis Bomber, netting 11 points for the next high mark.

Coach Honey Russell plans to use his two platoon system against the Warriors. In all probability, his starting unit will be Sadowski at center with Mel Riebe and either Hoefer or Mariaschin as forwards and Garfinkel and Spector in the backcourt.

The relieving platoon will feature Hankins, Ehlers, Stump and either Mariaschin or Hoefer, all depending who gets the starting nod. With this group will be Sadowski who is expected to do chores with both units. He will be spelled by Simmons and Connors.
